Meeting Called To Discuss Cotton Market Decline

LEADERS INVITED TO MEET MONDAY IN NEW ORLEANS

American Cotton Shippers Association Sponsors Move To Seek Relief for Demoralization.

FEDERAL OFFICIALS WILL BE PRESENT

Restoration of Confidence in Textile and Cotton Markets Primary Objective of Gathering.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 8.—(P)—

The American Cotton Shippers' Association today, by telegram, requested leaders of the cotton trade in the United States to meet in New Orleans next Monday to seek means of relieving "the decline and demoralization of the cotton market."

The invitations were sent out by R. C. Dickerson, of Memphis, Tenn., vice president of the American Cotton Shippers Association at the instance of D. M. McCuen, president of the association.

Mr. Dickerson in his telegram said: "Owing to continued decline and demoralization of the cotton market this association has been requested to call a general meeting of the cotton trade for the purpose of considering ways and means to help the situation."

Mr. Dickerson said in the telegram that the association was assured of the presence of Chairman Legge, of the federal farm board, Secretary of Commerce Lamont, Carl Williams, cotton member of the farm board and possibly Eugene Meyer, director of the federal reserve bank.

Among others who will attend are E. F. Creckmore, general manager of the American Cotton Co-operative Association, with headquarters at New Orleans and J. P. Henican, president of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange.

Some score or more of others prominent in the cotton exchanges, shippers' associations, co-operatives and general cotton circles have been invited.

Invitations have been sent to the New York and New Orleans Cotton Exchanges, the Chicago Board of Trade, the various spot exchanges, textile associations, the federal reserve banks at Dallas, Atlanta, St. Louis and New Orleans and to the cotton trade in general.

Restoration of confidence in the textile and cotton markets will be the primary object of the conference, Mr. McCuen said.

"The market is suffering from lack of confidence," he explained. "Events of the past 12 months have been such as to shake confidence. Intrinsic values should not be destroyed by a state of mind. Prices of cotton are lower today than they were in 1914 when the war began. Standards of living have advanced and, relatively speaking, prices are even lower than the price level indicates."

"There will be enough distress and suffering this winter among our industrial workers without adding distress among the cotton farmers. Any advance in the price of cotton, however, must be predicated upon an advance in textiles. It is impossible to get textile manufacturers to enter enthusiastically into consumption of cotton if they have to do so at a loss."

"It is imperative that consumers and distributors of textiles appreciate the present low prices of the finished product and do their part in the distribution for the common good. There is absolute necessity for the restoration of confidence in the values of cotton and cotton goods, and it is hoped that constructive measures will be evolved at this meeting that will bring about a change in the trend of the market."

WILLIAMS SEES INCREASED USE. WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—(P)—An increase in estimated cotton production of 146,000 bales over the forecast of a month ago was said today by Carl Williams, cotton member of the farm board, to be "of no moment as compared with the prospective world's use of cotton this season."

Adams Attacks Reagan Victory

Senatorial Nominee Forfeited Rights by Failure To File Expense Account, Lawyer Claims.

Claiming that E. L. Reagan, of McDonough, has forfeited his right to be the nominee of the democratic party for the state senatorship from the 35th district of Fulton, Henry and Clayton counties by alleged failure to file an expense account in Fulton county and to notify the secretary of state of his intention to run, Virgil E. Adams, Atlanta lawyer, Wednesday announced his candidacy for the district senator's seat in the general election on December 3.

Similar conditions were said to exist in the senatorial election in the 34th district of DeKalb, Newton and Rockdale counties, where John Wesley Weekes, of Decatur, has been declared the democratic nominee. Secretary of State George Carswell Wednesday night said he is certifying to the governor the names of Mr. Adams and W. H. Braswell, of Decatur, candidate for senator from the 34th district, while he is not certifying the names of Reagan and Weekes, because of failure of the latter two to give notice of their candidacies by October 6. Mr. Braswell filed his candidacy with Carswell before that date, he said.

Carswell gave it as his opinion that the law requires candidates for state senatorships to file notice of candidacy with his office 30 days before the election in order to qualify.

Adams' announcement was not in accord with the usual custom of rotating the state senatorship among the three counties of the district. Adams admitted this, but claimed that his action was necessary "in order that the wishes of the people of Fulton county might be carried out, and that their legislative representatives may not be faced with the possibility of probability of having measures affecting only Fulton county defeated by a senator nominated outside the county."

1,580,000-Bale Crop of Cotton Seen for Georgia

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS. Georgia's 1930 cotton crop, based on the condition of the crop as of October 1, will be the largest since 1919, according to estimates today of the Georgia crop reporting service of the United States department of agriculture.

The indicated yield, the crop reporting service said, bids fair to reach 1,580,000 equivalent 500-pound bales, an increase of approximately 80,000 bales over the previous estimate. The production in 1919 was 1,600,000 bales.

Last season Georgia's production was 1,543,000 bales and in 1928, 1,029,000 standard bales.

The October 1 estimate of the government service, obtained from correspondents throughout the state, places the acreage yield at about 200 pounds of lint per acre based on an estimated 3,772,000 acres under cultivation.

Ex-Congressman Found Guilty On Rum Charge

MANUEL HERRICK.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 8.—(P)—Manuel Herrick, former Oklahoma congressman, and two men who were tried with him on charges of manufacturing and possessing liquor, were convicted today in federal district court. Judge Morris A. Soper said he would impose sentences tomorrow.

Herrick was arrested in a raid on a still in southern Maryland on August 8. "He was working as a $15 a week handy man. On the stand today he declared he was getting evidence for the prohibition department at Washington."

J. P. Moore, a subordinate of Amos W. P. Woodcock, director of prohibition, told him, he testified, that "I'll be very glad to have you give me any information that you acquire about prohibition law violations, but I can't guarantee you immunity from arrest or recompense for your work."

Herrick, in overall when arrested, was wearing a blue suit in court. He has been in jail since his arrest. Acting as his own attorney, he took with him to the stand what he called "a record book" and read notes on his activities while working at the still.

The men convicted with him were E. L. Reagan, who Herrick said employed him, and Pius B. Ennels, a negro.

Hungry Prisoner Is Given Liberty And All Evidence

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—(P)—John Gorman hoisted his gaunt form wearily as he leaned across the prisoner's rail. He was haggard from days without food, days without work, his 6 feet 3 inch frame wasted to a scant 40 pounds. Even the few days of jail had not erased the deep imprint of hunger.

Burglary, and they had the evidence against him—arrayed there on the courtroom table: a carton of potato chips, cans of soup, a bit of candy stolen from a wholesale house. He stood there awaiting sentence, indifferently, for food was better than freedom and hunger.

The prosecutor stepped up to Judge Lyle and whispered. Perhaps he remembered the quality of mercy—"There is no complaint against him," the court addressed Gorman. "I am going to discharge you."

Gorman turned to go. "And hadn't you better take the evidence along?" Judge Lyle added. "No one has claimed it. It will help you along until you get a job."

BY FRANK GETTY.

United News Sports Editor.

SHIBE PARK, PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8.—With a crash of extra-base hits heard around the baseball world, the Philadelphia Athletics won their second successive world's championship today, defeating the St. Louis Cardinals in the sixth and deciding game, 7 to 1, and winning the series by 4 games to 2.

Backing up the brilliant pitching of George Earnshaw, were the resounding wallops to all corners of Shibe park—including two mighty homers from the bats of Jimmy Dykes and Al Simmons—the Mackmen scored a well-earned triumph and left no doubt as to which was the better team.

Earnshaw, allowing the Cardinals but five hits, rose to the heights of pitching greatness and stamped himself one of the best world series pitchers of all time. Until the ninth, the big right-hander held the Red Birds helpless, and then, when the game was won and the celebration of Connie Mack's fifth world's championship already had begun, a plucky St. Louis team which would not give in until the final out, scored its lone run.

As a ball game, this sixth contest was over before it was fairly under way. The Athletics faced "Wild Bill" Hallahan, who had beaten them in the third game, with confidence, and a swift attack which rolled up enough runs to win before he could get them out in the first inning.

After Bishop had popped to Frankie Frisch, the crowd, numbering about 33,000, warmly cheered Jimmy Dykes when he came to bat. Dykes' misplays in St. Louis had put him in a fair way to becoming the "goat" of the series. Thus encouraged, he proved the batting hero of the final game.

Dykes worked a walk and Mickey Cochrane drove a long double whistling down the right-field line. George Watkins, St. Louis right fielder, misplayed the ball and was charged with an error. Dykes racing home and Cochrane going around to third.

Hallahan bore down on Al Simmons and achieved his one successful gesture of the game by striking out the clean-up man. But the effort cost "Wild Bill" his control and Jimmy Fox walked. Up came Bing Miller, whose hitting had been disgraceful, and Bing banged the ball into right field, scoring Cochrane with what was to prove the winning run.

The game was decided then and there, with Earnshaw forcing the Red Birds to eat from his able right hand inning after inning, and the Mackmen piling up runs on home runs by Dykes and Simmons and doubles by Dykes and Fox.

Once more the Athletics proved that their power lies in their punch, as they made only seven hits, all but one of them directly responsible for a run or two. It was a triumph of a ball club which entrusted its fate to two of the greatest pitchers in baseball and to the lethal wallop in the bats of its slugging regulars. Throughout the series, Earnshaw and his side-kick, Lefty Grove, pitched effectively, accounting between them for four victories which retain the championship for Philadelphia. And, throughout the series, Dykes, Cochrane, Simmons and Fox, coming up in that order, were ready with the extra base hits that crushed a game but outclassed St. Louis club.

Gabby Street played every card he knew of today, to no avail. He

BRITAIN PROPOSES HIGH TARIFF WALL TO GUARD EMPIRE

Imperial Conference Proves Receptive to Suggestion on Trade Preference by Canadian Premier.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—(P)—Great Britain's imperial conference made plans today to build high tariff walls around the United Kingdom and the dominions beyond the seas as a protective measure against the "economic blizzard" that has hit the world.

It was J. H. Thomas, for the home government, who called the present depression a blizzard when he opened today's session, but it was Premier B. Bennett, of Canada—who they know how to deal with blizzards—who took the center of the conference stage.

Mr. Bennett quickly aroused interest with a definite proposal of 10 per cent additional preference in the Canadian market for the mother country and for other empire units which would return the favor.

Moreover, the Canadian prime minister invited the empire delegates to meet in Ottawa next spring as guests of the Canadian people for the purpose of building a comprehensive system of British empire preferential tariffs. There in Ottawa, under the shadow of the United States tariff wall, the empire envoys would prepare their own protective system.

Bennett spoke following Mr. Thomas, who had inaugurated the empire economic survey. Spokesmen of other empire units—Australia, South Africa, Newfoundland, the Irish Free State and India—one after another approved the general principle of empire preference. Tomorrow the empire prime ministers will go into the Bennett proposal.

STATE OF ALAGOAS AND PERNAMBUCO TAKEN BY REBELS

Rio Government, Confident of Suppressing Revolt, Recruits Volunteers, Calls Reserves.

FEDERAL PLANES DESERT TO ENEMY

Revolutionaries Overthrow Alagoas Government and Establish Own Rule in Pernambuco.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Brazilian revolutionaries claim important widely-spread gains in both the northern and southern sections of the far-flung republic.

The federal government believes it will soon dominate the movement everywhere, except in the southern state of Rio Grande do Sul, where the revolt originated.

Revolutionary leaders, who have established headquarters in Porto Alegre, capital of Rio Grande do Sul, assert the following:

1. Capture of the important city of Pernambuco and establishment of a provisional government.
2. Capture of Villa Annitopolis, a strategic point, opening the way into the state of Santa Catharina.
3. State of Alagoas in the north has been won over to the rebel cause.
4. Rebel armies now marching on the northern city of Bahia. Other forces pressing northward toward Sao Paulo while still other troops are consolidating successes in southern states.
5. Capture of five federal airplanes which will be made the nucleus of an air force.

The federal government at Rio de Janeiro, confident of suppressing the uprising, has moved troops against the rebels in the states of Minas Geraes, Pernambuco and Santa Catharina.

Military planes bombed Bello Horizonte, capital of Minas Geraes. Warships have been sent along the coast, north and south.

Volunteer battalions are being recruited for service with the government, and reserves have been called out.

Meanwhile, a strict censorship is in effect, obscuring the actual situation.

STATE OF ALAGOAS REPORTED TAKEN. PORTO ALEGRE, RIO GRANDE DO SUL, Brazil, Oct. 8.—(UN)—An official communique issued by the revolutionist headquarters tonight declared rebel forces under General Juarez Tovar overthrew the government of Alagoas and were marching on Bahia.

Alagoas is 1,100 miles north of Rio de Janeiro, a state just south of Pernambuco.

The communique declared the revolutionaries had captured six federal airplanes at Natal, capital of the state of Rio Grande do Norte, and that

FEDERAL PLANES JOIN REVOLUTION.

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Oct. 8. (P)—Brazilian revolutionary authorities issued a communique in Rivera tonight which said that four federal airplanes sent to bomb the city of Bello Horizonte, state of Minas Geraes, had joined the revolution. The communique added that six other military planes at Natal, capital of the state of Rio Grande do Norte, also had gone over to the rebels.

It was added that the remaining personnel of the federal air force was under arrest because of refusal to obey orders.

The same communique said that revolutionary troops from Minas Geraes had invaded the state of Espirito Santo.

PERNAMBUCO CITY CAPTURED.

PERNAMBUCO, Brazil, Oct. 8. (P)—The important northern city of Pernambuco tonight was under the control of revolutionary forces which reported that the insurgent movement against the central government had been victorious in all states north of Pernambuco.

The capture of this city, which is one of the largest in Brazil, followed a 48-hour struggle which broke out early Saturday morning between revolutionary forces and part of the garrison and state military police who remained loyal to the federal government. Casualties in the fighting were reported to number 150.

The revolution, in combination with other states in Brazil, broke out in Pernambuco at 1 a. m. Saturday. On the revolutionary side were the students, civilians and part of the army garrison while on the federal side were the state military police and the remainder of the army.

The revolutionists immediately took control of the arsenal and the surrounding streets. The police launched counterattacks and there was heavy fighting with rifles and machine guns.

The insurgents then laid siege to the quarters, the jail and the governor's palace. An armored car was captured and after 48 hours of fighting the last police stronghold was taken at 4 a. m. Monday. Police and soldiers adhered to the movement.

Governor Coimbra and his staff fled Sunday night, repeating a similar flight which he made when he was governor in 1911.

Automobiles filled with shouting groups made their way through the city while the populace showed great enthusiasm. High school boys who took part in the fighting were greeted as popular heroes. The crowd shouted: "Viva revolution" and paid tribute to the memory of Joao Pessoa, former president of the state of Parahyba and a candidate of the liberals for the vice presidency in the March 1 elections who was shot and killed here.

It was reported that the assassins of Pessoa, who were being held in Pernambuco jail, committed suicide. Everywhere red flags, the color of the liberal party, were displayed. A provisional government was established yesterday under the direction of General Juarez Tavora, head of the revolution in the north. Governor Cavalcanti has appointed officials to put down excesses and to re-establish order. Today commerce was resumed.

It was reported that the governor of Rio Grande do Norte fled to Rio de Janeiro and that the governor of the state of Parahyba was being held in jail. General Lavender, commander of the federal forces stationed in Parahyba a week ago, died in the fighting. The acting governor of Parahyba is now the former chief of the state police who is a great admirer of the late Governor Pessoa.

AMERICAN INVESTMENTS ARE HEAVY IN BRAZIL.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8. (P)—The destruction invites attention to the huge American investments in the South American republic, which total between $575,000,000 and $675,000,000.

They were listed at the department of commerce under the following heads: Government bonds, $400,000,000 to $450,000,000; manufacturing enterprises, $400,000,000 to $500,000,000; public utilities, $90,000,000 to $110,000,000; and miscellaneous enterprises, $45,000,000 to $65,000,000. Though comparatively little American money is invested in coffee and rubber, Brazil's two major products, commercial observers recalled that a relatively large rubber plantation development project has been sponsored by the Ford interests in the state of Para. This state lies in the Amazon region and its capital city of the same name has figured in the armed difficulties.

Much of the American money invested in Brazil is centered in Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo, the large cities where federal control is reported firm. The investing American firms were listed as: The Electric Bond and Share Company, several nationally known meat packing firms represented by subsidiary Brazilian plants, the Standard Oil and Texas Oil Companies, through subsidiaries; the International Telephone and Telegraph Company, the International General Electric Company and various other firms. Other foreign interests, principally those of English, Dutch and German origin, were said to exceed in aggregate value the total of American investments in Brazil.

Cooke Will Begin Battle Against Chair November 29

Motion for New Trial, Filed for Slayer of 18-Year-Old Daughter, Is Set for Hearing.

Under sentence to die December 3 for the murder of Emma Jane Cooke, his 18-year-old daughter, William J. Cooke, on November 29, will begin his fight to avoid execution of the sentence. A motion for a new trial, filed Wednesday by Attorneys John Commins and John H. Morrow for the defendant, was set for hearing by Judge A. L. Franklin, of Augusta, who presided in the case for Judge John D. Humphreys.

After Judge Franklin passed sentence on the carpenter, Cooke was returned to Fulton tower to await the result of his new trial motion.

Cooke had charged to say when he stood before the bar Wednesday morning to receive his sentence. Judge Franklin told him "this is the final and ultimate appeal of people who travel over your road." He expressed regular program of automobile and motorcycle races will be given.

Several widely known racing drivers will be among those to participate in the sweepstakes races.

The entire program includes the auto-buggy parade and show.

Company Presentations.

After the band concert, Captain Walter B. Elliott will lead Company E, his command, through a regulation drill; a demonstration of physical drill also will be staged by Company F, under Captain Richard C. Endicott; a guard mount will be presented by Company B, under Captain Sterling B. Howard while Company C, under the command of Captain Joseph L. Spencer, will present a series of fancy drills. Service company, under command of Captain William J. Pike, will be in charge of transportation to and from the fair, and Warrant Officer Clint C. Barber will direct the band.

Garbed in full dress West Point uniforms, a company of picked cadets of the Georgia Military academy will start the military program at 4 o'clock this afternoon, when a formal guard mount is staged.

Cadet Captain Claire Phillips will be adjutant of the guard and Cadet Sergeant Gonzales will be sergeant major. New officer of the day will be Cadet Captain Adams, and the old officer of the day will be Cadet Captain Burleson. Cadet Lieutenant Ryan will be commander of the guard. Cadet Lieutenant de Jarnette will be in charge of the band and Cadet Sergeant Baker will act as drum major.

The G. M. A. guard mount was arranged for the Jaycee program by Captain C. M. McGuarrie, P. M. S. and T. at the academy.

Cattle Contests.

Berry schools, Rome, with three out of the half a dozen champions, Wednesday took off the honors in the Jersey dairy cattle judging. That school won first for the female senior and grand champion and the junior champion bull.

In addition, Berry won prizes for the best grade herd, the best yearling herd, the calf herd, the get of sire and the produce of cow.

Henry Odum, of the Newton County Calf Club, divided second honors in the cattle show with J. W. Woodruff, of Columbus. Odum took the junior champion female, while Woodruff won the senior and grand champion bull.

In the young bull and young female classes, Woodruff, Berry schools, Odum and the Jersey Island farm shared honors in the first and second places.

F. P. Lindsey, a member of the Spaulding County Calf Club, also placed in the open ring against the best of the Jersey herds and won second prize for his 4-year-old cow.

Newton County's Calf Club won first prize for the best calves in the fair, displaying Spaulding county, which has won champion honors for the past several years. Spaulding county won second prize and Douglas county placed third.

Members of the champion club include Henry Odum, Frances Odum, Jack Jones, Ruth Odum, J. T. Owens, Jr., Tallulah Odum, C. H. Berry, Jr., and Pete Williams.

F. P. Lindsey, of Spaulding county, showed the grand champion calf. He also had the best senior calf.

Henry Odum exhibited the junior champion, which also placed in the open ring.

SUPREME COURT ASKED TO BAR ARMS OBJECTOR

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8. (P)—The government today asked the supreme court to decide whether persons who refuse to declare without qualification their willingness to take up arms in defense of this country are entitled to naturalization.

The question was presented to the highest court in two cases, in both of which the second circuit court of appeals directed naturalization, although the applicants refused to declare unequivocally they would bear arms.

September 1, 55 per cent a year ago, and 53.1 per cent for the ten-year average.

LEGGE WILLIAMS ACCEPTS INVITATION.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8. (P)—

Chairman Legge, of the farm board, and Carl Williams, cotton member, today accepted the invitation of the American Cotton Shippers' Association to attend a meeting to be held in New Orleans Monday to consider means to aid the situation growing out of the decline of the market. "I think that the cotton shippers show a very fine spirit of helpfulness," Williams said, "and their call for the meeting shows an appreciation on their part of what low-priced cotton means to the cotton south."

NASH

Announces

3 new EIGHTS and a new SIX

NEVER was such motor car quality offered at prices so sensationally low. The literally startling difference becomes at once apparent when you contrast the prices of the new and finer Nash series, with prices of corresponding models a year ago.

Coming at this time, these wholly remarkable values constitute an achievement of special import, not only to those who buy—but to those who manufacture motor cars, as well.

This unique example in value-giving was planned last November. At that time, C. W. Nash and the strong group of executives surrounding him, clearly foresaw present conditions. They at once began to design cars affording value so great, so unmistakable, as to overcome all buying reluctance.

The result is instantly apparent. Even casual inspection of the four new Nash cars establishes the fact that nothing even remotely approaching them in downright dollar value has ever been available in their respective price fields.

The low non-productive Nash overhead, the fact that Nash operates entirely without the heavy financial burden of borrowed capital, and the foresightedness of the Nash organization, alone enable Nash to offer so much for so little.

These three factors have combined to produce in these cars beauty and luxury and performance so notable, at prices so low by contrast, as to win for Nash a still larger place in the minds and the hearts of the motoring public.

Whatever style of car you desire, there is a Nash suited to your needs. Come in at once—drive one of these thrilling new cars—let us appraise your present car.

SENSATIONALLY PRICED!

STUDY THESE SENSATIONAL PRICES!

Compare what is probably the most remarkable achievement of Nash in greater value-giving—the New Six—with the Single Six it succeeds. The New Six offers a multitude of superiorities—at prices which range from $160 to $140 below the prices of the Single Six.

Body Style	The New Six W. B. 114½"	Last Year's Six W. B. 114½"	Price Difference
Sedan (4-door)	$845	$1005	—$160
Coupe	$795	$940	—$145
Coupe (rumble seat)	$825	$980	—$155
Sedan (2-door)	$795	$935	—$140

Compare the New Eight-70 with its two additional cylinders, its longer wheelbase, its larger, more luxurious body, with the six-cylinder car it replaces. Then consider the remarkable fact that there is actually a basic price differential in favor of the new Eight!

Body Style	The New Eight-70 W. B. 116½"	Last Year's Six W. B. 114½"	Price Difference
Sedan (4-door)	$995	$1005	—$10
Coupe	$945	$940	+ $5
Coupe (rumble seat)	$975	$980	—$5
Special Sedan (4-door)	$955

Compare the New Twin-Ignition Eight-80 Series with the 6-cylinder car it replaces. The Eight-80 is larger, longer. Design, appointments, upholstery are finer—prices are radically lower.

Body Style	The New Twin-Ignition Eight-80 W. B. 121"	Last Year's Twin-Ignition Six W. B. 118"	Price Difference
Sedan (4-door)	$1295	$1415	—$120

Coupe (rumble seat)	$1285	$1395	—$110
Town Sedan (4-door)	$1375

Compare the New Twin-Ignition Eight-90 Series, now with a 115 H. P. Engine, with the last year's 100 H. P. Eight. Body appointments are finer, upholstery more luxurious, and prices are far lower!

Body Style	The New Twin-Ignition Eight-90 W. B. 124"-133"	Last Year's Twin-Ignition Eight W. B. 124"-133"	Price Difference

"I suffered so with bleeding piles I could hardly lie down or sit down at times. The doctor seemed unable to help me, and I was afraid would have to be operated on. I already had suffered for years in this way for several years, and tried salves, and lots of other things. Then I saw a Colace Pile Pill advertisement in the St. Louis Times. The first bottle was nearly gone before I could see results, but after that the proved as good as can be. They are healing to the bowels, and relieve that dreadful pain, and knowing how many women suffer, I gladly write to say you can refer to me as one who praises Colace Pile Pills, always," writes Mrs. W. H. Copeland, Sudheimer, Mo.

Thousands of grateful men and women have found these little pills, taken with a swallow of water at meal times, go deep down inside to the roots of the trouble, and healing, soothing and banishing the cause work almost as if by magic. No salves, suppositories or ugly operations any more for them. If the reader suffers with piles in any form, obtain at your druggist or direct, and use on positive guarantee that treatment will banish pain and symptoms to complete satisfaction or money back. If out druggist can obtain of his jobber for you or send 75c for regular bottle of 45 pills, postage paid, to Colace Chemical Co., Brentwood, Md.—(adv.)

ROY RODGERS LEAVES ESTATE TO CHILDREN

Will of Former Atlantan, Drowned in Ocmulgee, Creates Trust for Survivors.

The will of the late Roy J. Rodgers, president of a Macon renting agency and former Atlanta businessman, who was drowned in the Ocmulgee river several days ago, provides for the establishment of a trust in which the bulk of his estate shall remain until his two children become of age, it was made known Wednesday when the document was probated before Judge Walter C. Stephens, of the Bibb county court of ordinary.

Executors and trustees were authorized to invest in realty and property and will also provide for an investment of $5,000 in realty property for the testator's father, J. Rodgers, of Atlanta, on condition that the estate should be sufficient to take care of it, and a further clause provides that an additional $5,000 shall be set aside for the education of the two children. At the time the will was filed for probate, Mrs. Rodgers, widow of the deceased, filed a petition for a year's support, it was said.

According to Judge Stephens, practically all Mr. Rodgers' holdings are in the corporation of which he was president, and the administrators under the will were undecided, it was said, whether to continue operation of the renting establishment or to liquidate.

Roy Rodgers, who was prominent in Macon business circles, formerly was widely known in Atlanta, where for some time he represented a snuff company. He went into the real estate business in Macon after his removal there some years ago.

Storms in Britain.
LONDON, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Heavy rains and a high wind swept the British Isles today, many places recording winds of more than 60 miles an hour. The mooring mast at Cardington, now tragically vacant, showed a wind force of 67 miles an hour.

at the alarming spread of tuberculosis among negro children, the committee announced. According to statistics compiled by the Rev. Gekkie M. Smith, superintendent of the Battle Hill Sunday school, there are more than 400 cases now under observation among negro children alone, with the death rate disproportionately high as compared with that prevailing among white children.

Leaders in the movement express the hope that through the agency of the new ward the disease may be arrested in its early stages while the child still has sufficient strength and vitality upon which to base the fight for its life. All interested persons have been urged to take part in the meeting this afternoon.

A meeting designed to organize the efforts of persons interested in the construction of a special ward at Battle Hill sanitarium to handle tuberculosis cases among negro children will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon at Big Bethel A. M. E. church, it was announced Wednesday by Jesse O. Thomas, chairman of the citizens' committee in charge of the project.

The movement toward construction of the children's ward originated with the Sunday school class composed of patients at the sanitarium, and has since spread among interested citizens who have volunteered their services and support in the campaign to raise the needed funds.

An urgent need for such an addition to the sanitarium has been created by the alarming spread of tuberculosis among negro children, the committee announced.

French Ocean Fliers
Hailed at Richmond

RICHMOND, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Major Dieudonne Coste and Lieutenant Maurice Bellonte, French trans-Atlantic fliers, landed at Byrd airport at 3:48 p. m. (E. S. T.), and were greeted by several thousand persons this afternoon. They will be house guests of Governor and Mrs. John Garland Pollard at the executive mansion tonight.

Two mothers, one only 17 years old and the other a widow and sole support of five children, faced the United States court Wednesday on charges of violating the prohibition laws.

Mrs. Rosa Roberts, of Howell Mill road, whose mother is caring for her five children, was sentenced to 90 days in Fulton Tower after being convicted on a charge of selling whisky. She told the court she couldn't find anything else to do in order to make a living, and when the court suggested that some three million people are out of jobs she expressed the opinion that the most of them are selling liquor also.

Mrs. C. L. Chitwood, who had been punished previously in the state court for selling a pint of liquor, was fined $1 and the costs and given 30 days to raise the dollar.

A third mother, Mrs. Lillie Kirk, of a Fourteenth street address, is under bail awaiting action of the grand jury after prohibition agents discovered approximately 100 quarts of high-class whisky in her automobile.

BERLIN, Oct. 8.—(AP)—The city of Berlin today retired Lord Mayor Gustav Boess on a pension of about $7,500 annually "for reasons of health."

The decision leading to his retirement came only after his administration had been subjected to a searching investigation as a consequence of charges of favoritism in letting of municipal contracts. The scandal arose while he was visiting in the United States about a year ago.

Georgia Association of Women Lawyers Holds Dinner Here and Is Addressed by Judge S. Price Gilbert

Officers of the Georgia Association of Women Lawyers at the annual dinner held at the Henry Grady hotel Wednesday night. Left to right they are Miss Nance Wolfe, recording secretary; Mrs. Alice W. Flowers, vice president; Mrs. McDougald Johnson, president; Miss Mary Tenenbaum, treasurer, and Mrs. Marie C. Anderson, parliamentarian.

Fifteen members of the Georgia Association of Women Lawyers attended the annual banquet at the Henry Grady hotel and heard Judge S. Price Gilbert, associate justice of the court of appeals of Georgia, deliver an interesting and humorous talk.

Judge Gilbert, one of the best after-dinner speakers in the annals of Georgia barriesters, delighted the women lawyers with a repertoire of imaginary situations in which the woman lawyer—no longer a novelty anywhere—meets in the practice of the law.

The Georgia Association of Women Lawyers embraces practically all women in Atlanta who have been admitted to the bar and quite a number in other cities of the state. Many of them are actively engaged in practice, some hold responsible positions in which the knowledge of the law is necessary, while others have studied and obtained license to practice when and if they feel it necessary to "enter the business world."

Mrs. McDougald Johnson is president of the association. The other officers are: Mrs. Alice W. Flowers, vice president; Miss Mary Tenenbaum, treasurer; Miss Nance Wolfe, recording secretary; Mrs. Marie C. Anderson, parliamentarian, and Mrs. Margaret Jewett Chesire, corresponding secretary.

Louisiana State Secretary Dies; Is Succeeded by Woman

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 8.—(AP) Governor Huey P. Long today appointed Miss Alice Lee Grosjean, his private secretary, as secretary of state, succeeding Secretary James J. Bailey, who died early today. The commission was issued at noon. Miss Grosjean has been private secretary to the governor since he was inaugurated on May 21, 1928.

Miss Grosjean, who is 24 years old, became the first woman state official in Louisiana and the youngest secretary of state in the country.

Petite and demure, she took the oath of office shortly after noon in the presence of a few friends and state officials.

Mr. Bailey died at his home here early today after a brief illness. He had held his post for 14 years.

He was 57 years old. His widow and two children survive him.

Death occurred at 2:30 o'clock this morning, coming as a distinct shock to the capital, since the serious nature of his illness was known only to his family and a few friends.

On Wednesday night, October 7, he attended the last meeting of the state board of liquidation in the offices of Governor Huey P. Long. This was his last visit to the statehouse.

The following day it was learned that he had contracted a severe cold, which prevented his attendance at a meeting of the new state capital building committee, on which he was an ex-officio member, and since that time he had remained at his home.

Inquiries by newspapermen yesterday revealed that he was confined to bed, but the family declined to have a physician's bulletin issued on his illness, although it was learned that the cold had developed into influenza. Last night his condition was reported as unchanged.

Death came suddenly early this morning, resulting from pneumonia, aggravated by constitutional complications.

Whether the report will go further and place the commission as for or against prohibition, the commission chairman would not say.

He added, however, he still believed that "if the commission reaches the conclusion that prohibition is not enforceable I think we should say so."

Washington, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Assurance that President Hoover's law enforcement commission already has gone deep into the subject of prohibition and that it hopes to report definitely to congress in December on dry law enforcement conditions was given today by Chairman Wickersham, of the commission.

Whether the report will go further and place the commission as for or against prohibition, the commission chairman would not say.

He added, however, he still believed that "if the commission reaches the conclusion that prohibition is not enforceable I think we should say so."

New U. S. Parole Board Is Holding Hearings Here

Group of Three, Following Sessions Here, Will Begin Tour of Other Government Prisons.

BY R. E. POWELL.

Beginning a task that may result in sweeping changes in the parole system of both the federal and state governments, members of the United States board of parole this week are holding hearings at the Atlanta prison preliminary to a swing over the country and the holding of similar hearings in all federal prisons.

As one of the initial steps in a study of prison control and regulation, congress, at its last session, created the board of parole and authorized the president to appoint three members.

The president chose: Arthur D. Wood, chairman, Michigan writer and jurist who was, at the time of his appointment to the federal board, commissioner of pardons and paroles for the state of Michigan. Prior to that work he was a juvenile court judge in Detroit. Judge Wood is a member of the board of directors of the American Prison Congress which meets in Louisville, Ky., next week.

Irvin B. Tucker, of Whiteville, N. C., is one of the outstanding lawyers of that state and for eight years previous to his appointment on the parole board United States attorney for the eastern district of North Carolina. His unusual record as a prosecutor commended him to the president for appointment as a member of the parole board.

Dr. Amy N. Stannard, M. D., of Washington, is a nationally known psychiatrist and prior to her appointment last summer was on the staff of St. Elizabeth's hospital, Washington. She is medical officer for the parole board.

Georgia during 1929 ranked second among the southeastern states in exports, with shipments through the state's ports amounting to more than $70,000,000, L. P. Dickey, southeastern manager of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, told the members of the Atlanta Foreign Trade Club at their weekly meeting Wednesday at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

Total exports from Georgia, the speaker said, probably exceeded $100,000,000 in value, as a considerable portion of the products was shipped from neighboring ports outside the state. The outstanding export was cotton, and during 1929, Mr. Dickey said, together with resin and turpentine were the principal outbound shipments, total exports in the combined products being $50,000,000. Other million-dollar export products were lumber, cotton, truck and tire fabrics and leaf tobacco.

"It is generally agreed," the expert said, "that business is going to be better, but no increase is looked for. There is a great need for more showmanship with respect to the foreign trade of this section. More foreign delegates should visit the south. The National Foreign Trade convention should be brought here in 1933 or 1934."

Death came suddenly early this morning, resulting from pneumonia, aggravated by constitutional complications.

Whether the report will go further and place the commission as for or against prohibition, the commission chairman would not say.

He added, however, he still believed that "if the commission reaches the conclusion that prohibition is not enforceable I think we should say so."

Washington, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Assurance that President Hoover's law enforcement commission already has gone deep into the subject of prohibition and that it hopes to report definitely to congress in December on dry law enforcement conditions was given today by Chairman Wickersham, of the commission.

It is Studebaker's deliberate judgment that

free wheeling

is the greatest development in automotive engineering since the self starter

Why America is going

free wheeling

MOMENTUM is generated by every automobile. But until Studebaker developed Free Wheeling with positive gear control it was wasted. Not only was it wasted, but caused wear and tear on engine and chassis.

CUTS OPERATING COSTS—Free Wheeling puts momentum to work—under control. It saves 12% to 20% in gas and oil. It adds immeasurably to chassis life. The engine works only 8 miles while the car travels 10.

BETTER PERFORMANCE—Free Wheeling gives the driver a new and thrilling sensation of freedom of movement. And it results in undreamed-of ease of shifting. You may move the gearshift lever back and forth between high and second at any car speed, without touching the clutch.

QUIET—Even in second you may glide smoothly forward without a sound.

SAFETY—The full braking power of the engine is instantly available even at high speeds.

LOW ONE-PROFIT PRICES—Those who are driving Free Wheeling Studebaker Eights will tell you that they would demand this great engineering advancement even if it cost more and there were no savings in cost of operation. But Studebaker Eights cost less to operate and they are built to the standards of quality established by Studebaker through 78 years.

IN our announcement advertising we said, Free Wheeling under positive gear control is the greatest development in automotive engineering since the self starter was introduced nineteen years ago.

The American public is confirming it by purchases of Studebaker cars. Here are the facts:

JULY

Free Wheeling Commanders and Presidents were announced July 10th and Studebaker jumped to 6th place in number of new cars registered in July.

AUGUST

Other manufacturers either announced new models or reduced prices in July and August, but Studebaker advanced to 5th place among the 45 makes of new cars registered in August.

SEPTEMBER

On September 18th a new Dictator Eight with Free Wheeling was announced and Studebaker ranks fourth in some of the few states from which registration reports have been received.

These other features of the new Studebaker Eights would put them ahead of all competition even without Free Wheeling.

MUCH TOO GOOD TO BE WITHOUT

A triumphant feeling... for you sense the very first time you use PEBECO, the "iced" dentifrice, that it is working. Pebece's tang is significant—none of your wishy-washy tastes here. It is like a bit of ice in your parched mouth on a sweltering day. You get something of the shock, the thrill—and you know that while cleaning and whitening the teeth, Pebece is giving a sense of mouth exhilaration you've never before enjoyed. Try it a week... it's too good to be without.—Advt.

ENDS DIGESTIVE ILLS QUICK AND GAINS 8 POUNDS

Food does not nourish when it is not properly digested. That's why people who suffer from gas on stomach and bowels, belching, nausea, headaches, dizziness, etc., due to indigestion, often find themselves underweight, weak, with little energy and vitality.

All this is quickly changed when you start using the simple discovery known as Pape's Diapepsin. When people experience for themselves the amazing results of using these tasty little tablets, they invariably feel compelled to tell others.

Mr. C. B. Roberts, 539 East Bay St., Jacksonville, Fla., says: "I suffered for over two years with gas on my stomach, and headaches; trying all the time to get relief by using medicines and treatments."

"Then I got a sample of Pape's Diapepsin and began using it. It was such a wonderful help to me that I kept on using it, until now I eat anything I want without bad after-effects."

"Friends that I have told about Diapepsin have been helped in the same way. I have gained eight pounds since starting on it."

All druggists sell it; or if you wish to try it before buying, write "Pape's Diapepsin," Wheeling, W. Va., for a trial box, FREE.

COUNTY DEMOCRATIC DELEGATES CHOSEN

Fulton, Lanier, Laurens and Long Consolidated Returns Yet Missing.

Fulton, Lanier, Laurens and Long counties have failed to send in official consolidation of their vote in the recent run-off primary, according to Mrs. Bessie Anderson, secretary of the state executive committee and the official report of the result of the primary is thereby being held up.

Mrs. Anderson communicated with the chairman of the committees in the four counties Wednesday and was assured that the returns would be put into the mails at once.

Names of delegates to the state convention have also been slow in coming in, according to Mrs. Anderson, less than 100 of the 161 counties having reported their delegations up to Wednesday night.

It was also said at the capitol that Chairman G. Ed Maddox of the state committee might call the executive committee together on the day before the convention to decide a number of contests. He is undecided, it was said, whether to call the entire committee or only a subcommittee that had charge of the primary election.

Additional names of delegates and alternates received by The Constitution up to Wednesday night are as follows:

Polk County.
Delegates, C. R. Brumby, Cedar-town; E. S. Ault, Cedar-town; T. W. Schlestedt, Cedar-town; Dan. Hugh Williamson, Rockmart; Alternates, W. M. Cummings, Rockmart; T. I. Parlee, Cedar-town; Dr. C. W. Peck, Cedar-town; C. I. Scarborough, Cedar-town.

34 Cars Entered In New Bankhead Paving Caravan

Thirty-four cars have been entered in the motorcade to Austell Friday, October 15, in celebration of comple-tion of the first link in the Atlanta-Birmingham paved highway. It was announced Wednesday by the Atlanta Motor Club. The entry list will be limited to 100 cars. A feature of the motorcade will be the presence of the 48-piece band of the Twenty-second infantry at Fort McPherson, which will make the trip in a double-decker Georgia Power Company bus.

The cars will form in line at 1:30 o'clock Friday afternoon at West Peachtree and North avenue. At 2 o'clock will move out North avenue to Marietta and then out the Bank-head highway to Austell. Escort cars from Tallapoosa, Brewster, Temple, Waco, Bowdon, Carrollton, Villa Rica, Winston, Douglasville, Lithia Springs and Austell will meet the Atlanta cars at the river bridge.

A reception committee has been ap-pointed by Charles J. Shelverton, president of the Western Georgia Bankhead Highway Association as fol-lows: Mrs. Mary Harbor, chairman; Mrs. R. H. Vail, Mrs. Hudson Thom-as, Mrs. W. A. Bessy, Mrs. C. T. Perkinson, Mrs. L. G. Garrett, Mrs. Milton Camp, Mrs. G. H. Dozier, Miss Ruth Shelverton, Miss Linnie Winters, L. L. Ragdale, C. T. Perkinson, Dr. J. G. Garrett, Howard Land, C. C. Peterson, Eraxier Land, P. H. Winn and W. A. Beatty. A barbecue and chicken dinner will be served at Aus-tell.

CHELAN, Wash., Oct. 8.—(P)—Aiding in the capture of bank bandits is the latest exploit in law and order for Senator Wesley L. Jones, author of the "Five and Ten" prohibition enactment.

Senator Jones' appearance in the role of vigilante was not premeditated. Flying robbers were blocked when their automobile met his on a one-way road to the Jones ranch.

Driving to the Chelan Miners and Merchants bank in a stolen taxicab yesterday, Henry Rule, 21, Campden, Alta., and Audrey Robins, 17, Columbia, S. C., took $1,000 and fled in the cab after the bank president and cashier had refused to obey orders to enter the bank vault.

In their haste the robbers chose the Jones ranch road, to find their escape blocked by the senator's car.

Bob Kerchman and Paul Younger, of Chelan, were pursuing the robbers, who then had no choice but to take to foot.

While Senator Jones watched, Kerchman and Younger drove up and set out after the fleeing bandits. Kerchman firing as they headed into brush. Rule dropped to the ground wounded. Both surrendered.

Too much ACID

Many people, two hours after eating, suffer indigestion as they call it. It is usually excess acid. Correct it with an alkali. The best way, the quick, harmless and efficient way, is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained for 50 years the standard with physicians. One spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in stomach acids, and at once. The symptoms disappear in five minutes.

You will never use crude methods when you know this better method. And you will never suffer from excess acid when you prove out this easy relief. Please do that—for your own sake—now.

Be sure to get the genuine, prescribed by doctors for conditions due to excess acid. It is always a liquid; it cannot be made in tablet form. Look for the name Phillips' and the word genuine in red.

SPEAKERS FOR CHEST APPEAL ARE SOUGHT

Roy LeCraw Heads Bureau
To Plan Spreading of Plea to City.

The message of the Community Chest and the work of human helplessness performed by its 38 societies will be presented to Atlanta by a group of public speakers in connection with the annual appeal of the Chest for support of its 1931 program.

Roy LeCraw, chairman of last year's campaign for public support, and one of the outstanding younger businessmen of Atlanta, will head the speakers' bureau of the fall campaign organization. He will be assisted by Mrs. D. R. Paige as secretary of the bureau.

"Every attempt will be made to acquaint men and women of Atlanta with the purposes and activities of the Community Chest," said Mr. LeCraw. "Our plan calls for addresses to be made at every gathering in Atlanta, no matter what the occasion, concerning the program of charity and relief that is performed by the Chest agencies."

The task of recruiting Atlanta's eloquence for the spread of this message began Wednesday. Mr. LeCraw announced that any organization desiring a speaker on the subject of the community's work of social service may obtain one by calling him or Mrs. Paige at Walnut 3211 or Walnut 0861.

"It is planned that no assembly of men or women, whether for purposes of civic or social enterprise, shall go without a statement of the accomplishments and ideals of the city's social welfare societies," Mr. LeCraw said. "This message, and its appeal for help in a situation which is beyond any precedent, will be broadcast by every speaker to be enlisted."

Noted Aviatrix Arrives

Notwithstanding that she was forced to adopt the slower method of reaching Atlanta by train when a ground crew at Philadelphia bungled her instructions to prepare her personal plane for the trip south, Amelia Earhart, premier American woman flyer, arrived in this city in time to attend the banquet of the Associated Traffic Clubs of America, the movements of which she follows with interest. She was greeted upon her arrival at the terminal station Wednesday evening by J. W. Roberts, assistant vice president of the Pennsylvania railroad and a delegate to the convention here.

than 20 minutes to don evening gown for the night's festivities.

America Not Lagging.

"Be sure and get this idea straight—" she remembered, wheeling abruptly from a waiting elevator at the Biltmore. It was 10 minutes past six and the banquet was set for 6:30. And here is what she turned to "get straight."

"Don't let anybody tell you that we Americans are lagging behind Europe in aviation. The truth of the matter is that we are far ahead of Europe in flying. There's only one way to compare it and that is the number of miles flown on schedule. In America today we are flying more than 100,000 hours a day on schedule." She italicized the "on schedule." That, she said, is what counts.

Previously she had been asked her opinion as to whether a career awaits women in aviation. "Everybody thinks of it as you do," she said. "I was not referring to actual piloting, but the time will come when we shall have women pilots in commerce as we now have men. . . . What I meant was that there are other phases of aviation in which women may excel—technical executives and the like."

Shies at Naming Leaders.

Miss Earhart smilingly declined to designate the three present-day fliers she regards as the most outstanding. She eluded this question by explaining that where one flier might be the greatest stunner, another might be the most reliable in point of schedule or speed.

She likewise pleaded ignorance when she was asked to comment on the disaster to the British dirigible R-101. She does not think, she said, however, that lighter-than-air craft will ever displace the airplane in commercial organizations in America. Speed, she said, is the determining factor there.

She referred to the unpleasant weather in a secular vein, recalling that this was supposed to be "the sunny south," but in the next breath—as if she feared she might have hurt someone's feelings—said:

"Oh, I was just joking. I know different. You see, I've flown over Atlanta several times when it was just beautiful.

The first woman to fly across the Atlantic is engaging in her talk. Unlike most female celebrities she does not resort to dissimulation. Her voice is slightly aloof, with only a trace of the Boston accent and she speaks slowly. She has, whether she knows it or not, a school-girlish way of blushing crimson at frequent intervals.

Miss Earhart left at midnight for Greensboro, N. C. Either there or at Danville, Va., her plane will take her back to New York.

Byrd Writer Tells Of

POLICE CHIEF KILLED, 4 HURT IN GUN DUEL

Two Alleged Robbers May Die of Wounds in N. C.
Affray.

MURPHY, N. C., Oct. 8.—(P)—Seven men, four policemen and three alleged postoffice robbers, fought with pistols on the outskirts of Murphy early today.

Tonight Chief of Police Mack Carringer was dead. Officers George Leatherwood and Butch Savage had serious wounds. Walter Bryson, long sought for the slaying of his father-in-law years ago, and Jeff McPherson lay at the point of death in the county jail here, and K. Bryson, brother of Walter, was sought by track dogs. He was believed wounded.

Only Policeman Toby Fain escaped unhurt.

Late yesterday, Fain said, C. C. Linderman, postmaster and storekeeper at Coker Creek, Tenn., telephoned Chief Carringer that he had been set upon by three men, robbed, bound and gagged, carried into mountain country and tied to a tree. He loosed his bonds and made his way to a telephone, advising Carringer the men were headed toward Murphy.

Early today Carringer and his men, keeping watch on the outskirts of the town, sighted an automobile answering Linderman's description. He halted it and began questioning the occupants. One man fired point-blank. The chief died instantly, a bullet in his heart.

Out of the subsequent firing, a scream sounded and one man fled into dense woods. Later identified by Lee wounded man as his brother, he was trailed tonight by dogs.

Walter Bryson has wounds in the lungs, arm and shoulder. McPherson, who says he is a native of Kentucky, refuses to divulge of what city, is shot in the hip and abdomen. They are "very low" and not expected to live through the night, Sheriff N. W. Abernethy said.

The condition of Leatherwood, shot through the right lung, and Savage, wounded in the arm, was reported improved late today.

Legislature's Will Supreme, Atlanta Census Brief States

Assembly Has Right To Determine Form of Government for Any City in State, Titus Asserts.

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Asserting that the will of the Georgia legislature is supreme in determining the form of government it shall provide for any city within its jurisdiction, Louis Titus, Washington attorney, today filed with the District of Columbia supreme court . . . supplemental brief supporting the writ of mandamus sought by the city of Atlanta to compel Director of the Census William M. Steuart to publish Atlanta's population in accordance with its new charter.

The brief was filed in response to a request by Justice Frederick L. Siddons, of the district supreme court, who is to spend a day or so close of the initial hearings Monday. He asked counsel for both sides to present additional data on the point of whether the federal census bureau has the authority to ignore a charter granted by a state legislature when that charter was apparently issued in accordance with the state's constitution.

U. S. To File New Briefs.

Additional briefs defending the action of the census director will be filed Saturday by Assistant United States District Attorney Fihely, the latter announced today. Justice Siddons is expected to spend a day or so considering the briefs before announcing a decision, which is looked for around the first of the week.

After citing a number of authorities and cases in support of his contention that the federal census bureau is without legal power to question municipal charters granted by any state legislature, Mr. Titus in his brief of today said:

"It is obvious that the will of the legislature is supreme as to the form of government it shall provide for the cities within its jurisdiction, and also as to the powers which it shall grant those cities.

Action of Legislature.

"In the exercise of that power, the legislature of Georgia saw fit to establish a borough form of government, giving nearly all the powers to the separate boroughs. It did give some powers, more advisory in their nature, to the general city. However, it is to be stated that, under the statute, the general city has the zoning power in the previously unincorporated area; has the power to call upon the police of the various boroughs in time of emergency, and has the power to apportion the expense of the city clerk's salary to the various boroughs.

"It also has the much more important power of advising with the various boroughs as to sanitation and other general matters affecting all the boroughs.

"It will be conceded," Mr. Titus continued, "that the powers given to the city as a whole, are not large, the legislature evidently considering it wiser to give great powers to the various boroughs comprising the city. But the legislature did establish a complete municipal form of government, giving certain powers, as above specified, to the general city and giving the great bulk of municipal powers to the various boroughs.

Farm Almost Unique.

"In any event, the legislature saw fit to provide this form of government for Atlanta, and to provide that the experiment should be tried for a period of 10 years, and that at the end of that time Atlanta might change over to a more consolidated form of government if it so desired. There is nothing in the statute compelling a change of the form of government at the end of 10 years, and it is quite conceivable that after 10 years' trial the borough form of government may be found satisfactory and that no change would be desired.

The legislature of Georgia, in any event, in the exercise of powers which it undoubtedly possesses, chose to establish that form of government, and we think it clear that it does not lie within the province of the director of census to overrule the action of the Georgia legislature.

Director's Duty Plain.

"The duty of the director of census is plain. . . . He has taken the census. He is publishing reports and will publish more. In these reports he has already published the population of the city of Atlanta as if the entire city consisted solely of the area of the old as it existed prior to the act of the legislature. He attempts to justify his action on the ground that the powers of government are given to the boroughs and not to the city in general, and that this form of government is unique and unusual in the United States.

The director further states in his answer that he will not recognize any city unless it has a centralized form of government such as most of the cities in the United States have.

The director of census has any such discretion, then he can compel the various states of the union in the chartering of cities to all use the same form of charter and to grant to all cities the same powers. He refuses to allow a state to try any new form of city government and refuses to recognize anything as a city unless it has the form of government which he approves. Having the power to take the census and publish his report he is exercising that power to coerce the various states into establishing the form of government which meets his own approbation. And he virtually notifies all states that unless they adopt the form of city government approved by him, he will refuse to recognize such cities and omit their population from his report.

Director's Powers Limited.

"It being the duty of the director of census to take the census and to publish accurate reports thereof, it must follow that he has no discretion to divide up a city into different parts and to publish the population of one of those parts as if it were the whole city. If he could do this as to Atlanta, he might likewise conclude to divide up the city of New York into its various boroughs and refuse to recognize the city as a whole.

"He might, with equal reason, go further. One portion of the city of Los Angeles is a very narrow, long strip of land, approximately one-half mile wide by 15 miles long. The director might say that the city of Los Angeles is unique and that no other city has such a shape, and he might refuse to recognize the population of this long, narrow strip as part of the city of Los Angeles.

"If the director of census has discretion to refuse to publish the population of a city because he does not approve of the form of government of that city, he must equally have discretion to refuse to recognize a city for any other reason which might appeal to his fancy. He might refuse to recognize a portion of Staten Island as being a part of the city of New York on the grounds that it is too thinly settled. He might refuse to recognize the city of Los Angeles because it continued vastly more area than any other city of the United States.

"Other illustrations." Mr. Titus concluded, "might be given at length. He might conjure up a thousand reasons which might be satisfactory to him for his refusal to recognize a city. It would be intolerable if the director of the census had any such power.

In addition to Mr. Titus, the brief was signed by City Attorney James L. Mayson, of Atlanta, and C. Bascom Sloop, associated with the former in law practice here.

Shot Through Head, Negro Man Is Killed

Shot one time through the head while he sat in front of a Bell street grocery late Wednesday afternoon, C. M. Sanders, negro, address unknown, was killed instantly, a police report said. The alleged killer, a negro known only as "Bud," escaped.

Sanders, witnesses told Detectives P. H. Jones and R. L. Burden, was sitting on a bench near the front door of a store at 113 Bell street when "Bud" appeared. With his hand beneath his shirt, the latter inquired: "Do you know what I got in here?" Before Sanders could reply, the negro drew a revolver and shot him one time in the head, it was said.

ADAMS ATTACKS
REAGAN VICTORY

them, because the senator from this district would not allow them to pass," he added.

Maddox Disagrees.

G. Ed Maddox, of Rome, chairman of the state democratic executive committee, Wednesday night declared that requirements of the election law will be met by filing notice with the ordinary of the three counties in each district 15 days before the general election. Maddox said that he did not believe that the contentions set out by Adams would apply to the state senatorial elections.

O. J. Coogler, of Jonesboro, chairman of the 35th district senatorial committee, Reagan and Weekes expressed similar opinions. Coogler declared that it is not necessary to file an expense account in all three counties, under a "gentlemen's agreement" entered into by the counties in regard to the rotation system of selecting party nominees for state senator.

Adams declared in his announcement that he filed notice of his candidacy with the secretary of state "as required," but that Reagan has not filed notice of his candidacy. "In addition to his failure to file his expense statement, which forfeits his right to be nominee of the party, he has, by failing to file notice of his candidacy, forfeited his right to have his name placed upon the official ballot in the general election," Mr. Adams said.

Adams cited certain civil code sections which provide, he said, for filing expense accounts with the clerk of superior court of each of the several counties composing a congressional or senatorial district, and for notifying the secretary of state of candidacy for state senator.

"All candidates for national and state offices," he said, "or the proper authorities of the political party nominating them, must file notice of their candidacy, giving their names and the offices for which they are candidates, with the secretary of state, at least 30 days prior to the general election." If elected, Adams pledged to co-operate with members of the house from every county composing the district in the passage of measures having endorsement of the people of those counties, and declared he will not "violate the rules of senatorial courtesy by attempting to block the passage of any measure of a purely local nature, where the will of the people has been explicitly expressed at the polls."

Adams Wrong, Coogler Says.

Belief that Adams is in error in his contentions regarding both the primary nomination and notification for the general election was expressed Wednesday night by O. J. Coogler, of Jonesboro, chairman of the 35th district state senatorial democratic executive committee.

The committee has called a convention to be held at 12:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon of next week at the Atlanta Athletic Club to place Reagan in nomination, Coogler said. After the nomination made by the convention, the nominee of the committee has 15 days before the election to file notice of intention to run with the ordinary of the three counties, he said.

Coogler said that there has been a gentlemen's agreement for a number of years between the three counties of the district with regard to nomination of a democrat for senator. Under this agreement, the candidates are not voted on throughout the district, but solely in the one county whose turn it is to supply a nominee, he said. Coogler expressed strong belief that Reagan was under no obligation of law to file an expense account except in Henry county.

Ran in One County.

"Mr. Reagan ran in only the one county under the district agreement, and there were no votes cast anywhere

In Fight for Senate

Virgil E. Adams (left), who Wednesday announced for the 35th district senatorial seat, and who charged that E. L. Reagan (right), of Jonesboro, has failed to qualify for the post.

except in Henry county in this race," Coogler said. "Therefore, the successful candidate did not have any expense account in Henry county and would not have to file an expense account except in that county."

Coogler said that in his opinion a state senator is not an officer of the state who would have to file notice with the secretary of state of intention to run in the general election, but that notice to the ordinary is sufficient.

Over long distance telephone from his home in McDonough, Reagan Wednesday night declared that there is no merit in the case presented by Adams, as the nomination of state senator is entirely in the hands of the district committee and nomination has been by the rotation system for many years. Reagan said that he filed his expense account in Henry county and had it published as required by the committee's rules, and that the committee, after its convention, is to certify the nomination to the ordinary of the three counties in the district so that his name will be placed on the ballot.

"If Adams runs, it must be as an independent candidate, and I presume the people of Fulton and Clayton counties will do as they have done heretofore and stand by the nominee, who, in this case, is from Henry county," Reagan said.

Maddox's Statement. In the opinion of G. Ed Maddox, of Rome, chairman of the state democratic executive committee, a state senator is not such an officer as would have to file notice with the secretary of state of intention to run in the general election. If anyone other than the democratic nominee offers for the place in the general election he could not be listed on the ballot as a democrat, Maddox said.

After the statement by Adams was outlined to him, Maddox said that the secretary of state would have to classify Adams as an independent on the ballot.

The rotation system of selecting state senators exists in several districts of the state by authority of the county committees under long custom, Maddox explained. He said there is no provision of law for such a system, but that the matter is entirely in the hands of each district committee. Under the rotation system, each county takes its turn in nominating the party choice in a primary election. Under the rotation system, the nominee so chosen notifies the ordinary of the counties, or the district committee does so, and is placed on the ballot by the ordinary, under the Georgia law, in counties having the Australian ballot system, Maddox said. In counties not having the Australian ballot system, the party committee prepares its own ballot, he said.

Asked whether a state senator is an officer of the state the same as a congressman is an officer of the national government, Maddox replied: "He is, in a general way."

Filed With Ordinary.

Weekes said that he did not file notice of his candidacy with the secretary of state because it is not necessary, but that he has already filed his notices with the ordinary in his district. He also filed his expense accounts in the three counties of the thirty-fourth district, Weekes said.

The Georgia code provides that all candidates for national and state offices shall file their candidacies with the secretary of state 30 days before the election, but candidates for county and district offices must be filed with the ordinary of the counties 15 days before the election, Weekes said.

"It always has been held that representatives and senators are county and district officers, and such candidacies have never been filed heretofore with the secretary of state," Weekes said. "Even if they are state officers, failure to file with the secretary of state would not keep them from going on the ticket, as this is not mandatory with the ordinary but is in his discretion, under the law."

Weekes pointed out that state house officers, solicitor generals and judges go on the state-wide ticket, and senators and representatives go on the district and county tickets.

Carwell Certifies Adams.

Carwell said that he has prepared the list of candidates to be certified to the governor as having filed notice of candidacy, and that the list will be presented to the governor today. Adams' name is on the list for senator from this district, but Reagan's name is not, he said.

Carwell explained that his duty is purely a ministerial one, and that he certifies to the governor whatever is filed with him by the candidates. Asked if the law requires notice of candidacy to be filed in state senator races, he said he believes it does, though it has not been observed in previous years. The law also requires such notice to the secretary of state in races for the lower house, in his opinion, Carwell said.

Carwell said that only three candidates for state senator have filed such a notice with him. These are, he said, Adams, W. H. Braswell, of DeKalb county, and Walter Seaman, of Waycross, republican, fifth district.

Adams' Statement.

"To the Voters of the 35th Senatorial District:

"I hereby announce my candidacy as a democrat for the office of state senator from the 35th senatorial district of Georgia in the general election to be held November 4, 1930. This district is composed of the counties of Fulton, Henry and Clayton."

"I live in Fulton county and am vitally interested in assisting to enact into law the measures advocated by the democratic nominees for representatives of Fulton county in the lower house of the general assembly, designed to affect needed reforms in our county government and smash the courthouse ring in Fulton county. Rumors have been current for some time since the primary of September 10 that the courthouse ring agent large sums of money in Henry county to influence the nomination of a senator from this district who would block, in the senate, the progressive measures advocated in the recent campaign by our representatives."

"Mr. E. L. Reagan, by a few votes, was nominated over his opponents in Henry county, and it has been freely predicted in courthouse circles that the representatives from Fulton county would be helpless to enact into law any of the measures advocated by them, because the senator from this district would not allow them to pass. Due to these rumors, and the demand by many of the good citizens of Fulton county, I have entered this race for the senate, in order that the wishes of the people of Fulton county might be carried out, and that their legislative representatives may not be faced with the possibility or probability of having measures affecting only Fulton county defeated by a senator nominated only by the vote of Henry county, and in whose nomination Fulton county has had no voice."

Campaign Expenses. "Section 92 of the civil code provides, 'That all candidates for congress or for the state senate shall within 20 days after the holding of the election or primary election at which they shall be candidates, file with the clerk of the superior court of each of the several counties, composing said congressional or senatorial district, respectively, an itemized statement under oath of all campaign expenses incurred by them, showing the amount of money expended in such campaign, the purpose for which it was used and source from which it was derived and shall in addition at the same time publish, in some one or more newspapers having a general circulation in such district or districts, said sworn statement.' and section 671 of the penal code provides that anyone who violates any of the provisions of section 92 of the civil code, on the subject of publishing campaign expenses, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor."

"Mr. E. L. Reagan failed to file his expense account as provided by section 92 and the clerk of the superior court of Fulton county has issued a certificate to that effect. Section 93 of the code provides, 'no person violating the provisions of section 92 shall be declared the nominee of his party.'"

"Mr. Reagan, by virtue of his failure to comply with the law, is not the nominee of the democratic party and I am entering this race as a democrat."

"Section 138 (10) of the code provides, 'It shall not be the duty of said officers (ordinaries) to place the names of any candidates on said official ballots, unless notice of their candidacy shall be given, in the following manner, to-wit: All candidates for national and state offices, who are candidates with the secretary of state, at least 30 days prior to the regular election.'"

"I filed notice of my candidacy with the secretary of state as required by the foregoing sections, but Mr. Reagan has not filed notice of his candidacy. In addition to his failure to file his expense statement, which forfeits his right to be nominee of the party and makes him guilty of a misdemeanor, he has, by failing to file notice of his candidacy, forfeited his right to have his name placed upon the official ballot in the general election."

"I pledge, if elected to the senate, to co-operate with the members of the house from every county composing the district in the passage of measures which have the endorsement of the people of those counties. I shall not violate the rules of senatorial courtesy by attempting to block the passage of any measure of a purely local nature, where the will of the people has been explicitly expressed at the polls. As a resident of Fulton county, I am familiar with the desires of the people of this county to eliminate certain abuses prevailing in our county government. I shall work for the passage of measures which will place the judges of the municipal court of Atlanta before the people for election; revoke the power of the county commissioners to fix the salaries of the judges of our superior courts; abolish useless offices, and confer upon taxpayers full power in their own names to protect the public treasury from the ravages by political parasites. "I want the people of this district to know that I will be a champion of the principles of honest government, and that my service as senator of this district will be marked by devotion to the service of the best interest of the people."

NORFOLK, Va., Oct. 8.—(AP)—A hundred wardens and volunteers fighting the fires in drought-parched Dismal swamp tonight had visibly checked the conflagrations which have blazed in two counties for several days.

THE MAIN RELIEF AHEAD.

In the matter of a democratic majority in the house of representatives of the congress turning out of the November ballot boxes, now comes Collier's weekly noting the same signs and making the same prediction that have appeared in the editorial page of The Constitution for months past.

The same circumstances and the same historic political turn-overs that Collier's cites have been pointed out in The Constitution more than once. They were never more obvious than right now, less than four weeks from the national voting.

The republican party managers may claim as their gall may suggest, but the great American public knows as an irrefutable fact that President Hoover and his big majority congress have fallen down utterly as safe and satisfactory administrators of the people's general government.

They have woefully failed to preserve the prosperity we had when they went on their jobs. They were silent and supine when stock speculators were running a hijacking rild upon the earnings and savings of the country. They became paralyzed of wisdom and economic statecraft when the Wall Street earthquake shattered the industrial, agricultural and labor structure of the nation. And they have since been groping through the wreckage without plan or power to recover the lost prosperity and confidence of their 120,000,000 fellow-countrymen.

What else ought to be expected to come out of such a muddle by the act of a common sense people? The first demand in such a crisis always is a change of managers. That sovereign remedy has been resorted to since the Hebrews tried King George off their backs and established this self-determining republic.

When a general fumbles his campaign and battle, he is supplanted and when our government agents mismanage public affairs and impose sacrifices and bankruptcies upon a prosperous people, the just thing to do is to turn them out and draft new and competent hands to man the wheels.

The brightest prospect that now attracts the eyes and hopes of the people is a coming democratic congress to stop the errors and inequalities of the existing national administration.

THEORIES OF HIGH LIVING.

A contention was made at the recent convention of the American Bankers Association that the average standard of living in the United States is "too high." Against that is placed the argument of Henry Ford that the scale of American living should be pushed higher and wages should be large enough to enable gainful workers to live up to an advancing average of necessities and comforts.

With the Ford theorem President Hoover, in his address to the convention seemed to fully agree. It is his own fixed theory that American enterprise, production and consumption of goods can be brought to that general level upon which any considerable poverty will be a peculiar exception.

The question raised is what is civilization for if not to improve human life conditions and make abundant and adequate the muniments of popular existence. The president is right when he holds that poverty is a solecism in the economic life of a people endowed and capable as are the Americans of today.

The fluid capital of the nation should be circulating; not heaped up in idleness and creating just such depressions of business, employment and enjoyment of living as the one through which the country is now struggling.

The basic practice of American civilization should be, and one day will be, that of "live and let live." Toward that day we are slowly moving. The pace needs wise and constant acceleration.

EQUITY IN STATE COSTS.

One of the important problems of government that is receiving study and adjustment in more than a few of the states is the allocation of parts of the revenue to special departments and functions.

These special allocations are found to seriously disturb the financial balance of revenues and proportional expenditures. In some states only around 30 per cent of the total revenues go into the general fund, the other 70 per cent being allocated by law to a number of departments, boards, commissions and institutions. That system results in the over-financing of some of them, the under-supply of others, and the semi-paralysis of many of the common and necessary functions of the state.

The system of special allocations prevents the workings of a consistent and economic budgeting plan, under which no special allocations are made, and all departments submit their estimates to be proportionally adjusted to probable revenues. In that way all functions are reasonably provided for and no one of them obtains excessive funds to be extravagantly or uneconomically used.

The wiser government managers almost everywhere are advocating the placing of all revenues in the general fund, to be apportioned under the budget system, or to be assigned with due regard for public necessities by the appropriation acts of the state legislatures. The object is to enforce equity and economy in all state expenditures.

MOINA MICHAEL'S MEDAL.

Humane Georgians will feel a personal gratification that the American Legion auxiliary, composed of the loving and loyal women of the nation who are pledged to relief work among the disabled veterans of the World War, have signally decorated Miss Moira Michael, of Athens, in this state.

Miss Michael originated the scheme of making the Flanders poppy the memorial and relief symbol of the World War casualties. It was so instantly fascinating that it has been adopted in all the nations that were allied in the great conflict. Her name is now familiar and precious to the suffering veterans of a dozen countries. She is their "Poppy Lady" and when the "distinguished service medal" was pinned upon her bosom at Boston on Monday she became one of the immortals of the greatest human war in all history.

The honor is a small, but none the less signal and significant, award for the consecrated services that Miss Michael has rendered to the most sacred interest of the veterans. To their welfare she has dedicated her life with all its intense enthusiasms.

It is historic and worth recording that two daughters of Georgia were the authors of Confederate Memorial Day and of "Poppy Day" for the World War veterans.

Thus is eminently emphasized the patriotism and self-sacrificing spirit that has burned like vestal flames upon the altar-hearts of Georgia women since the American Revolution.

Mayor Walker demands that his suspected officials shall cough up the truth or throw up their jobs. That sort of stuff is not what Tammany elected him for.

President Hoover talked patriotism at King's Mountain. That is about all his party has left to him to talk about.

Thirteen states can keep the eighteenth amendment in the constitution, and that's the unlucky number for the wet repealers.

President Hoover talks easily and sensibly when he isn't talking politics.

In a month and a day we will all know "who's who" in the next congress.

The gangster population of Chicago is being slowly deported to the cemeteries.

Everybody is against the saloon just as the saloon was against everybody beyond its bar.

President Machado, of Cuba, will probably suppress any revolution with his trusty machete.

The economic problem in this country is very simple. Make business lively or pay more taxes.

Chairman Fess is worried by finding that General Dread is taking charge of the republican hosts.

There's many a slip between the cup and the lip, and the slip is most often an order to a bootlegger.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PASSEN

The Other Paris.

The idea of Paris as the world's center of gayety far excellence often prevents us from seeing the real face of that interesting city, which remains after all is said and done, one of the greatest hearths of intellectual life in the world. Educated as we are in America to measure greatness and prominence often solely by financial success, one discovers frequently a tendency among some of our people to look down upon France, where the popular notion that a man is entitled to speak because he has a few more millions of dollars than his neighbor, is not subscribed to. To be sure, there is no contempt in France for the Nabobs at home or almost tempted to say, no contempt at all for anybody matter what his station in life may happen to be. There may be disdain for ideas, fierce hostility even, if the champion of such ideas should attempt to force them on others by other means than civilized persuasion. Any man, be he a beggar or millionaire, is entitled to express his views. This is literally true. For we must not forget that nearly all the great minds of France, and some of them have done infinitely more than armies to advance the cause of civilization, were individuals who had not the money to pay their rents and who often went ragged and unkempt. Few cashed in on those years of frustration, were individuals who had not the money to pay their rents and who often went ragged and unkempt. Few cashed in on those years of frustration, were individuals who had not the money to pay their rents and who often went ragged and unkempt.

And that seems now to promise the best chance for the democratic party to win the presidential election in 1932.

The potential managers of the party are known to be mostly wet and believe that wet sentiment is strong enough to pay the price of a clean-cut fight for the revision of national prohibition legislation and federal methods for its enforcement.

If the democratic party shall prove courageous enough to stand for repeal of the 18th amendment and the substitution of a Roosevelt plan, it will have the chance for the wet to prove their majority by electing the democratic candidates.

Must Beat Republicans to It.

There is one thing in the situation that the wet leaders of both parties understand, and that is the obvious hopelessness of forcing in the near future the repeal of the 18th amendment.

The refusal of 13 states to ratify a repeal amendment would prevent its adoption, even if all the other 35 states should vote unanimously for such repeal.

It is not hard for any one who knows the status of public political and prohibition psychology to name off-hand 13 states that would refuse to ratify any sort of prohibition repeal proposition.

But that does not prevent a bold party appeal for the election of millions of wet voters from their old

Looking for the Ark.

An American professor, Dr. Haverford, has expressed the hope that he is going to find the Ark of the Covenant in Palestine, the papers tell us. The Ark was the most sacred object in the ancient Hebrew temple. The Jews made it, upon the orders of Moses, at the time of their forty years' sojourn in the Sinai desert. In their wars with the occupants of the Holy Land the Ark was carried at the head of the army, because it was believed a symbol of the power of the tribal God. Present-day furniture experts would not look upon the wood of which the Ark was manufactured as a great treasure, but a piece of shittim-wood, the Bible tells us, which is nothing but acacia. It becomes doubtful therefore if the wood could still exist. But then there is the gold. The Ark was covered with this precious metal and on top of those wings touched. The gold, at Jerusalem, was a piece of furniture. Digging away at Beth-Shemesh, Professor Haverford found, not the Ark, but the jaw-bone of an unidentified animal. The jaw-bone, in the Jewish belief, was the most sacred relic of the ark. Could it be that we have here the famous jaw-bone of that ass which Samson snatched up from the Philistines to the credit of his own strength? Who knows? Perhaps Samson's compatriots preserved this unusual instrument of slaughter as a piece of museum piece, just as we see in Nurnberg the formidable berglass that some old prince used to employ in his draught. To give it a little reverence, they probably put it in gold. Or can it be that donkey's teeth, thousands of years after his death torn to gold by some mysterious process of fossilization? It's worth investigation at least. What a treasure the energetic searcher would stumble on if he could locate some donkey's grave.

LOOKING AND LISTENING

BY SAM W. SMALL

Which Big Party Will Have the Courage To Stand Upon a Wet Platform?

Once more there are voices being raised in the south favoring the formation of a "southern bloc" within the democratic party to cause fair consideration from the managers and conventions of the party.

It is well known, of course, that for 60 years past southern democrats have had to stand for the treatment of the eastern or western leaders put upon the platform.

Not until 1928 did they have the nerve to put a southern man on the presidential ticket—and that was not for the purpose of doing "nervy" sure enough for it was done for no other purpose than to sugarcoat the Al Smith pill and hold the ticket for it to the ticket. But the trick was too transparent and was repudiated by six southern democratic states.

Where the Democrats Are Headed. Unless the dry democrats of the south, with some in the west, consolidate more than a third of the party, they will be unable to stand solidly together, and the plans of the eastern and mid-western democrats, the convention will nominate a platform and nominate wet candidates.

And that seems now to promise the best chance for the democratic party to win the presidential election in 1932.

The potential managers of the party are known to be mostly wet and believe that wet sentiment is strong enough to pay the price of a clean-cut fight for the revision of national prohibition legislation and federal methods for its enforcement.

Everybody's Business.

BY JOHN F. SINCLAIR

Former Head of Reichsbank Assets that Business Men and Politicians Have Power To Make Prosperity—Canadian Prime Minister Throws Bomb Into Free Trade Plan of British Empire.

Before a distinguished group of New York economists and business leaders Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, former president of the reichsbank, told the Stable Money Association that businessmen not the politicians had the power to make world business prosperous.

Among those present were such well-known men as Julius H. Barnes, Dr. W. Randolph Burgess, F. L. Carlisle, Newcomb Carleton, Clarence Dillon, Dr. Irving Fisher, Albert H. Harris, Cornelius F. Kelly, F. A. Delano, Willis T. Booth, Seward Prosser, L. F. Loree, John McLaughlin, Thomas M. Perkins, Ogden M. Reid, Jackson W. Reynolds, Arthur Sachs, H. H. Porter, Francis H. Sisson, Carl M. Snyder, Gerald Swage, Paul M. Warburg, Clarence M. Wood, and others.

Dr. Schacht said that the world's business is in a state of confusion and that the only way to bring it back to normal is by the action of businessmen.

The heaviest day's business to date this week was done Wednesday by Judge E. D. Thomas' court in undetected divorces when 84 cases were disposed of. Thirteen cases were first verdicts, 46 were second verdicts and one was a "removal of disabilities" matter. With a calendar of 390 cases set for the week, Judge Thomas has disposed of 209 cases during the three days of court.

Frances Helen Adams, 9, of Hapeville, whose mother's blood in five transfusions has cured her of dreaded "hemophilia," of bleeding under the skin, Wednesday underwent a tonsil operation at Grady hospital, which a week ago would have proven fatal. Early this morning she was reported as "doing nicely." The mother, Mrs. H. R. Hilton, 25, of 441 Central avenue, Hapeville, greatly weakened by loss of much blood which was transfused into her daughter's veins, applied at the hospital Tuesday for treatment.

Mrs. Edith Cutter, self-styled tourist en route from Florida to her home at Highland Park, Ill., told police such a tragic story a week ago that it

Sun Tq Brush Dripping Skies Aside Today

Rain that drizzled most of the 43 Wednesday will play encores in and around Atlanta today. Director J. F. von Herrmann, of the United States weather bureau, said, but there is a prospect that it will subside late this afternoon and be followed by fair weather Friday and Saturday.

Temperatures, Mr. von Herrmann added, will range today between 54 and 78. Wednesday's high was only 66 and the low 62.

touched the heart of Mrs. Howard Allison, of 270 Williams street, who took her in, fed her, and even lent her some of her own clothes to wear. For almost a week Mrs. Cutter lived with her benefactress, ostensibly in order to search for her husband who got separated from her, she said, while she was shopping. But Saturday Mrs. Cutter got tired of playing Evangelist and disappeared with Mrs. Allison's coat coat, the latter charged.

At the same time, it was announced that the Silhouette, of Agnes Scott, The Pine Cone, of the Georgia State Women's College, and The Clarion, of LaGrange High school, all were awarded first class in their groups.

Dr. Louis D. Newton, pastor of the Druid Hills Baptist church, will be principal speaker at a varied program of the Atlanta Association of Credit Men, beginning at 6:30 o'clock tonight at the Garden tea room, 10-12 Edgewood avenue. Dr. Newton's address will be on "Imagination." Other cellor Philip Snowden is urged to surrender his free trade convictions in favor of the dominion views.

The Canadian premier was emphatic in declaring that empire preference does not mean empire free trade. The slogan of empire free trade has been voiced loudly in some sections of England recently, particularly by the newspaper press, Lords Beaverbrook and Rothermere, but Mr. Bennett and other dominion spokesmen, who are satisfied with the tariff walls they have built in the suburbs of the empire, say they have no intention of lowering them. They are ready to go 10 per cent higher for mutual empire benefits.

HAVE YOU . . . as a Business Man . . . Realized what the *First National Group Can Offer You?

Yes, it is difficult to visualize the variety and scope of the First National Bank's services, as head of the Southeast's largest banking group, but such services are none the less real.

Here is an institution that with its affiliated banks in Georgia, can be of immense business help right in your home market. It is a banking organization large enough to serve Atlanta concerns seeking national and international markets.

You do business here with friends of years' standing, yet, in doing business with you now, the officers of this bank place at your disposal widespread business contacts and resources that were not possible before the formation of this group.

Are you utilizing the various services of this bank as much as you should? . . . A good way to tell is to talk the matter over with one of our officers.

In each of these leading Georgia cities there is a bank that is a member of the First National Bank of Atlanta Group.

COURT OF APPEALS
HEARS TAYLOR PLEANorman and Saunders Also Present Pleas Before Tribunal.

Appeal of Walter C. Taylor, ex-city clerk, Wednesday was in the hands of the Georgia court of appeals following argument in that court. Taylor was convicted of bribery.

it two other important cases from Fulton county. One is the appeal of T. J. Norman, ex-treasurer of the Colonial Trust Company, who was convicted of willful misapplication of the company's funds, and the other is that of G. M. Saunders, convicted of violating the Georgia securities law.

The Taylor case was argued orally by Attorney Reuben Arnold for the defense and Solicitor General John A. Boykin for the state. The defense error in its brief 35 points of alleged error in the trial before Judge Virlyn B. Moore, and in his oral argument Mr. Arnold declared no official acts of Taylor were involved in the transaction.

Mr. Boykin held to the contrary, charging there were official acts of Taylor involved in producing the results it was alleged the $500 was paid for. Taylor was convicted of accepting $500 to secure the laying of sidewalks on West Peachtree street. His sentence was set at 12 months and $1,000 fine.

Norman's case also was argued orally, with T. F. Bowden, of Hewlett &amp; Dennis, speaking for the defense, and Assistant Solicitor-General J. Walter LeCraw for the state. Norman was given three years on conviction.

G. M. Saunders' case was submitted by brief. The appeal involves constitutionality of the state securities law, the defendant having been convicted of selling to a person stock in the Inter-City Radio Telegraph Company. Saunders was given three years on conviction. He is represented by Attorneys James C. Davis and J. N. Johnson and the law firm of Branch &amp; Howard. Solicitor Boykin and Mr. LeCraw signed the state's brief.

The cases of ex-Councilman W. B. Saunders and ex-Alderman J. E. Turner will be argued before the state court of appeals during the first week of November. Both defendants were convicted of bribery.

HAIRSTON ANNOUNCES
PLATFORM POLICIESCandidate for Williamson's
Seat To Speak at Little Five Points.

Coincident with issuance of a formal statement of his platform in his race for alderman from the ninth ward in the December 3 general election to succeed former Alderman Oscar H. Williamson, resigned, William M. Hairston Wednesday announced he will speak at 7:30 o'clock tonight at Little Five Points in the interest of his candidacy. All other aspirants for ninth ward seats were invited to attend.

Declaring that his platform will be the "ten commandments and the golden rule, with a seasoning of common sense," Mr. Hairston stated he will insist on fair, honest treatment of all persons "rich and poor alike, the big and the little man, and honest dealing in every cause."

In touching on the proposal to reduce council, the candidate declared it is possible that "the size of council may be reduced advantageously," adding "but we don't want to reduce it so far as to destroy the representative principle, nor make the governing body so small as to be anocracy."

Election of honest men of unchallengeable integrity is the most important thing in connection with establishment of honest government, Mr. Hairston held, stating "the people can not expect honest government unless they will take the trouble to pick out and elect honest men."

Liberal support of public schools, the police, fire and sanitary departments, with adequate recreational facilities including parks, will be some of the principal matters which Mr. Hairston will champion.

Charles E. Markles, candidate to fill the unexpired term of former Councilman W. Chester McEldown, of the second ward, subject to the general election, December 3, Wednesday issued the following statement:

"I am for a clean, honest, economical and progressive city government, in the best interest of all the people. If I am elected I will try to create a bigger and better Grady hospital. I pledge myself to further the interest of the people from the second ward in asking council to distribute appropriations for improvements for the sub in proportion to the taxes collected from the south side. I am a native born Atlantan, and have lived in Atlanta the last 27 years."

Reo-Royale Eight
On Display Today

Reo new Royale eight will go on display today at the Reo Sales &amp; Service Company, 402 Peachtree street. In addition to the Royale eight, the new 1931 line will include the Flying Cloud eight and six.

The aerodynamic principles of design as applied to the new Reos add unusual beauty to the line. The 1931 models are said to be the finest, fastest and sturdiest Reos that have ever been built. Particularly impressive is the Reo Royale Eight. It marks a striking departure from any previous production of this veteran manufacturer of fine cars. The Flying Clouds will be announced at a later date.

Gotham To Keep
Long Dead Man
On Pay Roll

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8.—(AP)—The death in 1920 of C. Granucci did not cost him his job.

Ever since Granucci took the civil service examination 11 years ago, listing his major qualification for the position of teamster for the city engineering department as the ownership of a span of mules, he has been paid $8.25 a day for his services. Today it appeared only the demise of one or both of the mules would strike his name from the pay roll.

City Engineer J. Jessup discovered Granucci had died. He also discovered Mrs. Carmine Granucci, widow of the late teamster, had hired John Griffin to drive her husband's mules.

team, and used the other $4.25 of the daily wage to keep herself and the mules.

"You see," she explained to Jessup, "the checks were made out to 'C. Granucci,' which is my name as well. I saw to it Griffin took the team out every day."

Jessup said the name of "C. Granucci" would remain on the books as long as his work was being done satisfactorily. The civil service commission, in deference to the widow, approved his stand.

Evanston police department wants this distinctly understood.

Mr. Kreml was quoted last week as making certain uncomplimentary statements concerning the ability of women to direct an automobile in the way it should go. He proposed to open a school for women motorists.

But today Mr. Kreml defended in loud, determined tones the ability of women. The amount of "fan" (or "pan") mail he has received from all over the country criticizing his attitude has been prodigious.

"Please tell the ladies," Mr. Kreml pleaded today, "to let me alone. I didn't mean to imply that women are to blame for most of the automobile wrecks. Quite to the contrary. Sixty per cent of the drivers in Evanston are women, and only 7 per cent of the accidents are caused by them. Just think of that! The ladies are to be complimented, and I hereby commend them."

It was mighty nice of Mr. Kreml to say that—and doubtless it will greatly reduce his mail.

THE GUMPS—WHO STOLE THE DIAMOND?

The MURDER at the VICARAGE

BY AGATHA CHRISTIE

INSTALLMENT XIV.

"The church clock chimed the half hour. They strolled out through the garden gate and along the lane, and just at that minute Dr. Stone came down the path leading to the hall, and climbed over the stile and joined them. They all walked towards the vicarage together. At the end of the lane, I think, but I can't be quite sure, they were joined by Miss Cram. I think it must have been Miss Cram because her skirts were so short."

"You must have very good eyesight, Miss Marple, if you can observe as far as that."

"I was observing a bird," said Miss Marple. "A golden crested wren, I think he was. A sweet little fellow. I had my glasses out, and that's how I happened to see Miss Cram (if it was Miss Cram, and I think so) join them."

"Ah! well, that may be so," said Colonel Melchett. "Now since you seem very good at observing, did you happen to notice, Miss Marple, what sort of expression Mrs. Protheroe and Mr. Redding had as they passed along the lane?"

"They were smiling and talking," said Miss Marple. "They seemed very happy to be together, if you know what I mean."

"They didn't seem upset or disturbed in any way?"

"Oh! no. Just the opposite."

"Deuced odd," said the colonel. "There's something deuced odd about the whole thing."

Miss Marple suddenly took her breath away by remarking in a placid voice:

"Has Mrs. Protheroe been saying that she committed the crime now?"

"Upon my soul," said the colonel. "How did you come to guess that?"

"Well, I rather thought it might happen," said Miss Marple. "I think dear Lettice thought so, too. She's really a very sharp girl. Not always very scrupulous, I'm afraid. So Anne Protheroe says she killed her husband. Well, well, I don't think it's true. No, I'm almost sure it isn't true. Not with a woman like Anne Protheroe. Although one never can be quite sure about any one, can one? At least that's what I've found. When does she say she shot him?"

"At 20 minutes past 6. Just after speaking to you."

Miss Marple shook her head slowly and pityingly. The pity was, I think, for two full grown men being so foolish as to believe such a story. At least that's what we felt like.

"What did she shoot him with?"

"A pistol."

"Where did she find it?"

"She brought it with her."

"Well, that she didn't do," said Miss Marple with unexpected decision. "I can swear to that. She'd no such thing with her."

"You mightn't have seen it."

"Of course I should have seen it." "If it had been in her handbag."

"She wasn't carrying a handbag."

"Well, it might have been concealed—upon her person."

Miss Marple directed a glance of sorrow and scorn upon him.

"My dear Colonel Melchett. You know what young women are nowadays. Not ashamed to show exactly how the Creator made them. She hadn't so much as a handkerchief in the top of her stocking."

Melchett was obstinate.

"You must admit that it all fits in."

he said. "The time, the overturned clock pointing to 6-20."

"What about the clock, Clement?"

I told him. He showed a good deal of annoyance.

"Why on earth didn't you tell Slack this last night?"

"Because," I said, "he wouldn't let me."

"Consent, you ought to have insisted."

"Probably," I said, "Inspector Slack behaves quite differently to you than he does to me. I had no earthly chance of insisting."

"It's an extraordinary business altogether," said Melchett. "If a third person comes along and claims to have done this murder, I shall go into a lunatic asylum."

"If I might be allowed to suggest—"

"Well?"

"If you were to tell Mr. Redding what Mrs. Protheroe has done and then explain that you don't really believe it is her, and then if you were to go to Mrs. Protheroe and tell her that Mr. Redding is all right—why, then, they might each of them tell you the truth. And the truth is helpful, though I daresay they don't know very much themselves, poor things."

"It's all very well, but they are the only two people who had a motive for making away with Protheroe."

"Oh! I wouldn't say that, Colonel Melchett," said Miss Marple.

"Why, can you think of any one else?"

"Oh! yes, indeed. Why," she counted on her fingers, "one, two, three, four, five, six—yes, and a possible seventh. I think of at least seven people who might be very glad to have Colonel Protheroe out of the way."

The colonel looked at her feebly.

"Seven people? In St. Mary Mead?"

Miss Marple nodded brightly.

"Mind you, I name no names," she said. "That wouldn't be right. But I'm afraid there's a lot of wickedness in the world. A nice honorable up-right soldier like you doesn't know about these things, Colonel Melchett. I thought the chief constable was going to have apoplexy."

Melchett's remarks on the subject of Miss Marple as we left the house were far from complimentary.

"I really believe that wizenup old maid thinks she knows everything there is to know. And hardly been out of this village all her life. Preposterous. What can she know of life?"

I said mildly that though doubtless Miss Marple knew next to nothing of life with a capital L, she knew practically everything that went on in St. Mary Mead.

Melchett admitted that grudgingly. She was a valuable witness—particularly valuable from Mrs. Protheroe's point of view.

"I suppose there's no doubt about what she says, eh?" inquired Colonel Melchett.

"If Miss Marple says Mrs. Protheroe had no pistol with her, you can take it for granted that it is so," I said. "If there was the least possibility of such a thing Miss Marple would have been on to it like a knife."

"That's true. We'd better go and have a look at the studio."

The so-called studio was a mere rough shed with a skylight. There were no windows and the door was the only means of entrance or egress. Satisfied on this score, a murderess, I noticed his intention of visiting the vicarage with the inspector.

I nodded.

As I entered through the front door a murmur of voices caught my ear. I opened the drawing room door.

On the sofa beside Griselda, conversing animatedly, sat Miss Gladys Cram. Her legs, which were encased in particularly shiny pink stockings, were crossed, and I had every opportunity of observing that she wore pink striped silk knickers.

"Hullo, Leon," said Griselda.

"Good morning, Mr. Clement," said Miss Cram. "Isn't the news about the colonel really too awful? Poor old gentleman."

"Miss Cram," said my wife, "very kindly come in to offer to help us with the guides. We asked for help last Sunday, you remember."

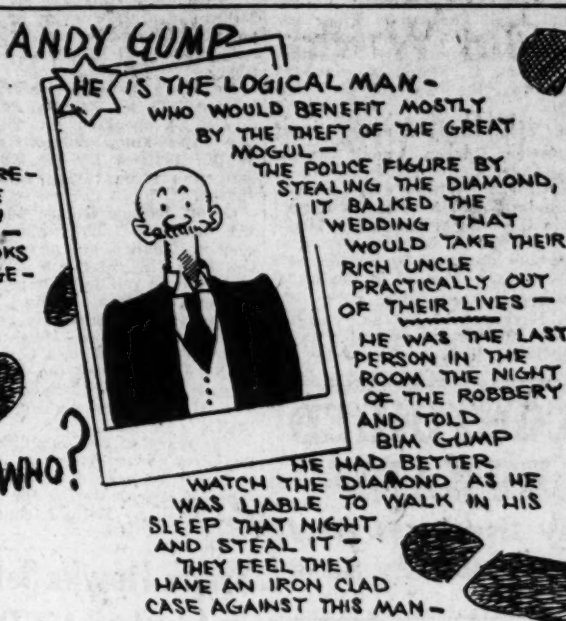

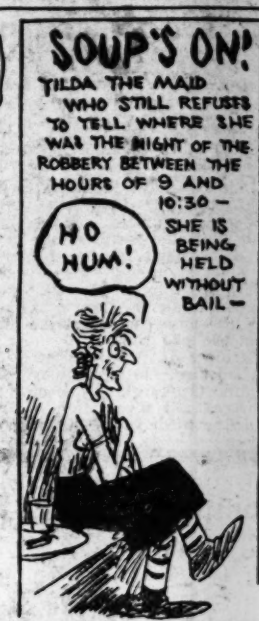

I did remember, and I was convinced, and so, I knew, was Griselda, that the idea of enrolling herself among them would never have occurred to Miss Cram but for the exciting incident which had taken place at the vicarage.

"I was only just saying to Mrs. Clement," went on Miss Cram, "you could have struck me all of a heap when I heard the news. A murder? I said, 'In this quiet one horse village—for quiet it is, you must admit—not so much as a picture house, and as for talking! And then when I heard it was Colonel Protheroe I simply couldn't believe it.'"

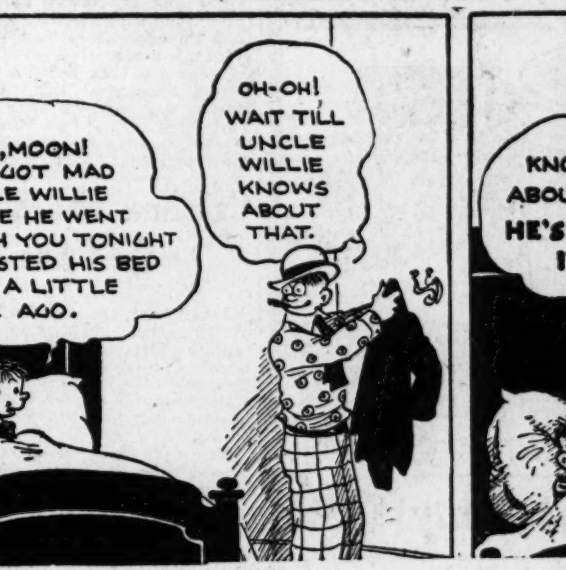

"And so," said Griselda, "Miss Cram came round to find out all about it."

Palmer Discusses Modern Architecture in Old World

European Building Development Is Compared With That of America Following Tour.

Business centers of Europe have remained the hubs about which expansions have taken place for many hundreds of years, Charles F. Palmer, president of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers and a member of the executive committee of the Atlanta association, told the latter body Wednesday at the social meeting held in the pine room of the Ansley hotel.

Mr. Palmer discussed European architecture and modern building development as compared to that of the United States as he found it on a recent tour of the continent.

Although his address was chiefly technical, it was one of the most interesting the organization has heard in several months.

C. F. Wilkinson, president, presided. Fred Schaefer is secretary. Taking as his subject, "Travels Abroad," Mr. Palmer described in detail many of the interesting places he visited, and exhibited photographs of them.

Trafalgar Square.

"It is claimed that the spot now known as Trafalgar square has been the center from which the business district of London has radiated for several hundred years, and from the looks of things will continue to be for generations to come," Mr. Palmer declared. "The same is true of centers at Berlin, Paris, Rome, Vienna and other cities which I visited, and it is predicted that New York, with her millions of people, will continue to radiate from the comparatively small island of Manhattan."

"I stood in Trafalgar square and counted the flags of 13 nations. It is said to be the crossroads of the world, and is one of the most international and Bohemian centers in Europe. It was the center of London when that community had 600 persons, and still is in a city of 6,000,000."

"Unusual departures in architecture and construction as compared with American methods and standards are seen in many of the places and even in the modern buildings. Great space is wasted in so far as we consider it is concerned. It sometimes takes three times as much space to construct a garage there as it does here."

"Rome radiates from the Pantheon, a pagan temple, built 27 years before the birth of Christ; Paris from an island in the Seine. There are only minor fluctuations from these centers even to this day."

German Architecture.

"In Germany we found a unique development in apartment houses, with units arranged in large circles and smaller units enclosed in the latter ones. There also was a unique duplex architecture, and we had to stop and inquire what the structures were, they were so different from anything we had ever seen before."

"Europe, and especially England, develops as the need demands. There is no wild speculation. Men are trained for real estate operations and are forced to stand rigid tests before being permitted to set up businesses."

"Some of the most magnificent developments in the entire world are possible because of the fact that in several of the countries a dictatorship or a virtual dictatorship exists. This makes possible symmetry in architectural lines and uniform materials for miles. In other instances, property was owned by certain landholders who insisted on certain types of developments and improvements. These have made for beauty. That in a large measure is impossible in America."

Mr. Palmer discussed at length garage, apartment house, business, office building and other developments in Europe and drew many interesting comparisons with those of America. He said buildings of six and seven stories were called skyscrapers there.

Way to Get At a Cold Is Through the Bowels

As soon as you catch cold, the pores close; perspiration is checked. Gases and waste can't escape through the skin. That's why your doctor's first advice in case of colds is a mild laxative like Cascarets. Medical authorities agree it actually strengthens bowel muscles. You get cascara in its most pleasant form in candy Cascarets.

Remember this when you catch cold; whenever breath is bad; tongue coated; or you're headachy, bilious, constipated.

Why resort to harsher things when Cascarets activate the bowels so quickly, so harmlessly and pleasantly—and cost only a dime?—(adv.)

Varying Music Schools, Topic Of Miss Behre

Just why music, as we enjoy it today, is a modern art, and the difference between the two great schools of composition, was explained Wednesday afternoon to the Fine Arts Club in lecture-recital by Miss Edwina Behre at the Piedmont Driving Club. Miss Behre, former Atlantan and member of one of the old families of this city, is now a resident of New York, where she has won considerable fame for the type of work she did Wednesday afternoon. That it is a well-deserved fame every member of the Fine Arts Club will concede.

The artist traced the development of the objective, or delineative type of composition, from the dawn of the Renaissance, through the French masters, such as Couperin, through Bach, Beethoven, Schumann, Chopin and Debussy. She illustrated her points with beautifully played numbers by the different masters and clearly defined just why it is that music of the older days, with its single tone melodies and complete simplicity, hardly seems like music to moderns, whose ears have been trained to the use of several layers of tone, or chords.

Showing how the Italians, who were responsible for the birth of modern music, are basically emotional and therefore not capable of creating the objective, or picture type of music, she traced the source of the story music to France, where it was born after music's rebirth had been carried into that country by the more emotional, and therefore subjective, type of Italians.

She admitted that Beethoven, Bach and Chopin were generally subjective, or creators according to mood, in their compositions, but played several examples from the works of each, showing that they could paint a picture in tones when in the objective humor.

She concluded with two remarkable interpretations of works by Debussy, whom she classed as by far the greatest of the modern delineative composers.

Miss Behre, incidentally, explained a lot about the newer generation which has puzzled sociologists when she remarked that the world today is "living in a humorous age." She applied the remark in a musical sense but its application is readily seen in much broader connections.

Miss Behre was introduced by Mrs. Edgar A. Neely, president of the Fine Arts Club. The occasion was the informal opening of the club's new season. Tea was served at the conclusion of the recital.

ONLY 'INTOXICATING' BREW HELD ILLEGAL

State Must Establish Fact in Prohibiting Sale, Court Says.

The Georgia court of appeals, in reversing the Whitfield superior court Wednesday, handed down a decision in which it holds that the sale of home brew is not illegal unless the state establishes, as a matter of fact, that the beverage is intoxicating.

According to an interpretation of the opinion given at the attorney general's office, proof that home brew is intoxicating will require evidence that the person who drinks it was drunk. The prohibition law of Georgia does not fix the alcoholic content of a beverage necessary to make it intoxicating.

"This court," according to the syllabus of an opinion filed in the appeal of Floyd Thompson, convicted of selling "seven or eight bottles" and ordered to pay a fine of $100, "will not take judicial cognizance that 'home brew' is a beverage prohibited by the laws of this state."

Opinion Written by Luke.

The court opinion, written by Associate Justice Roscoe Luke, in stating the case, said: "The indictment in this case charges that the defendant 'did sell and barter for a valuable consideration malted, fermented, brewed liquors commonly called home brew, manufactured from malt in part, and brewed and fermented liquors in which maltose is a substantial ingredient and liquors and beverages made in imitation and intended as a substitute for beer, ale and whiskey.'"

"The conviction rests entirely upon the testimony of one witness that the defendant sold him seven or eight bottles of 'home brew' for 25 cents a bottle. In principle, this case is controlled by the following ruling in Henderson vs. State, 38, Ga. App. 256: 'There being no evidence that the 'home brew' found in the defendant's place of business was an intoxicating beverage, his conviction of possessing intoxicating liquors was unauthorized and the refusal to grant a new trial was error.'"

"This court cannot take judicial cognizance that 'home brew' is one of the prohibited beverages mentioned in the indictment, and there being no evidence that it was, the trial judge erred in overruling the motion for a new trial based solely upon general grounds."

City's Appeal Upheld.

An appeal of the city of Atlanta from the refusal of Judge Virlyn B. Moore to sustain a demurrer filed in a suit brought by Mrs. Delia Key was upheld, the court of appeals holding that the city was not responsible for injuries suffered by a person stepping into a basin-like depression intended to drain the city streets.

Mrs. Key sued the city for $20,000, alleging injuries sustained when she started to get into an automobile on Thirteenth between Crescent and Columbia avenues.

The court held that Mrs. T. H. Brown, of Lowndes county, could not collect money from her mother's estate as compensation for caring for her mother before her death.

She was allowed $495 by the Valdosta city court as compensation, but W. F. Arnold, administrator, appealed. The higher court held that the estate could not be sued unless her mother, Mrs. A. J. Cribb, had contracted with her daughter.

The decision of the city court of Augusta in which it refused judgment to J. P. Newman, who sued the city for damages because he was forced to destroy condemned property, was affirmed.

Claimed $2,000 Loss.

Newman said he was ordered to destroy the property after it had been condemned, but that he tried to obtain a permit to repair the building. This permit was denied, and he was forced to incur a loss in destroying the property, he said. He asked $2,000.

In another decision, the court of appeals held that if the state highway board damages private property without adequate compensation, the owner of the property has a right to sue for damages.

The decision came in the court's affirmation of the action of the superior court of Decatur county in overruling a demurrer by the state highway department to the damage suit of L. L. Ward, of Wilkes, Ga. Ward sought damages of $1,500 and also $300 monthly because, he said, the department had rerouted a road in Wilkes, placing the road behind Ward's store. The highway department filed a demurrer and then appealed to the higher court when the Decatur superior court overruled the demurrer.

Forget-Me-Not Drive Support Urged by Russell

Horace Russell, president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, Wednesday called on Atlantans to contribute generously to the success of Forget-Me-Not day, October 15, thus adding his voice to that of Mayor L. N. Ragsdale, A. Steve Nance, and other Atlanta leaders.

The drive, to be for the benefit of disabled veterans of the World War, will be conducted by a committee of leading Atlanta women under the direction of Mrs. Henry M. Nicholas in behalf of the Betty Harrison Jones chapter, D. A. V.

"By contributing to those men who are still living, we honor the dead," Mr. Russell said. "These men are worthy of our support. They deserve their money, since some of them must continue to eke out an existence robbed of every faculty for properly enjoying life, and without loved ones. No greater cause was ever presented to Atlantans, in my opinion."

"Forget-Me-Not receipts assist the veteran, and provide competent and efficient liaison officers, who assist the veteran in getting his claim through."

William E. Tate, former national commander, who is a member of the executive committee of Betty Harrison Jones chapter, D. A. V., said Wednesday, "It is of vital importance."

Miss Roughton Weds Mr. Parham At Edgewood Church October 11

Plans for the wedding of Miss Laura May Roughton, granddaughter of Mrs. J. Nesling, to Robert S. Parham, Jr., of Greenville, Ga., are of interest. The marriage will be solemnized at 8:30 o'clock Saturday evening, October 11, at the Edgewood Baptist church. The Rev. L. B. Cranford, pastor, will perform the ceremony before a gathering of relatives and friends.

Musical Program.

An appropriate program of nuptial music will be rendered preceding the ceremony by Miss Eppie Jones, pianist, Harry Brown, violinist, and Joseph Freeman, of Greenville, tenor, who will sing "Because" and "I Love You Truly." "To a Wild Rose" will be softly played during the ceremony.

Miss Roughton has chosen as her matron of honor Mrs. Charles W. Jones, of Lexington, Ky. The bridesmaids will be Miss Doris Baldwin and Miss Leslie Parham, of Columbus, sister of the bridegroom-elect. James Parham, of Greenville, Ga., brother of the future bridegroom, will be the best man. The ushers will be Robert Baldwin, Lamar Campbell. The groomsmen will be Louis Parham, of Greenville, brother of the future bridegroom; Robert Allen Parham, cousin of the bridegroom-elect. The bride will be given in marriage by her uncle, A. C. Nesling.

A reception will be held after the ceremony at the home of Miss Roughton's grandmother, Mrs. J. Nesling, 372 Mason avenue, in Inman Park. The receiving party will include beside the wedding attendants Mrs. J. Nesling, grandmother of the future bride; A. C. Nesling, uncle of the bride-to-be; Miss Sallie Nesling, her aunt; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lummus, of Columbus, and Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Snapp, of Fort Valley. Miss Ruth Stewart will keep the bride's book; Misses Polly Johnston, Evelyn Norris and Kate Baldwin will serve punch.

Wedding Trip.

The young couple will leave on a wedding trip to North Carolina, making their home upon their return in Inman Park. Among the out-of-town guests who will attend the wedding are Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Parham, of Greenville, parents of the future bridegroom; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lummus, of Columbus, sister and brother of the bridegroom-to-be; Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Snapp, of Fort Valley; Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Diven, Mr. and Mrs. Earl P. McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Brown, all of Montgomery, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hill, of Greenville, S. C.; Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Kendrick, of Fort Valley; Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Brindin, of Fort Valley.

Miss Roughton is being entertained at a number of pre-nuptial parties. Mrs. Charles W. Jones, of Lexington, Ky., will entertain at the home of her mother, Mrs. M. H. Jones, on Iveson street, following the wedding rehearsal Friday evening. Mrs. J. Nesling, grandmother of the bride-to-be, was hostess at a touseau-tea yesterday afternoon at her home in Inman Park.

Mrs. Stirling Joins Actors of Drama Workshop

Mrs. A. W. Stirling has joined the group of actors of the Drama Workshop. She has such exceptional dramatic ability that a London producer, years ago, made her a very flattering offer to join his professional company, the offer being made after the producer saw Mrs. Stirling create the title role in Gilbert and Sullivan's charming "Patience." She declined this opportunity, married Dr. Stirling and later came to this country. It will be remembered by many Atlantans who have followed the theater through a period of years, that Mrs. Stirling played the lead in "Pinocchio" and other light operas in this city.

Mrs. Stirling will tread the boards once again in role of Mrs. Randolph, in Carolyn Pierce Ward's "Angels Unaware" which will be presented at the Atlanta Woman's Club, by the Drama Workshop on October 14. In this role, she will portray a southern gentlewoman, who is the victim of her husband's unbounded hospitality. Mrs. Stirling's beautiful voice and delightful accent, as well as her grace, poise, and rare histrionic ability will make the role a memorable one.

She is the mother of the former Alex Stirling, who is Mrs. Wilbur Fraser, of Ottawa, Canada, golf champion and Nora Stirling, distinguished actress, who is doing radio work in New York.

Other plays on the playbill are "The Spirit of the House," by Audria Bandy Gray, and "At the Fair," by Frances Freeborn Pauley.

Maple Grove Circle To Have Meeting.

Maple Grove No. 86 Supreme Woodmen Circle, Woodmen, will have a special feature this evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Red Men's Wigwam, an unusual class for initiation. The Dora Alexander Talley Guards will demonstrate floor work that will be given at the state convention which will be held here in March. A convention play will be given by the team and officers of the grove in the latter part of October. "The Old Maid's Convention" is the title of the play. Mrs. J. A. Brooks, financial secretary of the grove, is attending special meetings of the different groves in Rome. All candidates for initiation, team members and members of the society are urged to be present.

Sacred Heart Circle To Give Benefit.

Sacred Heart Circle of the Altar society, of which Mrs. Burnham S. Marsh is chairman, will hold a benefit luncheon at Davison-Paxon's tea room Friday, October 10, at 3 o'clock. Tickets are 50 cents and can be secured at the tea room. An attractive feature will be a fashion show. In addition to a table prize, many draw prizes have been donated. Players are requested to bring cards and pencils.

Junior Alliance To Be Organized.

A Junior Alliance Club will be organized for the benefit of all Jewish boys and girls between the ages of 14 and 18. The charter meeting will be held Sunday, October 12, at 5 o'clock in the Farland Center at 327 Crew street. Members are invited to attend.

Miss Amy Campbell Is Being Honored At Many Parties

Miss Frances Amy Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James DeWitt Campbell, whose engagement to William Terry Quarles has been announced, is being entertained at a number of pre-nuptial parties. Mrs. Joel Dean will be hostess at a dinner at 8 o'clock this evening at her home on Geneva street. The guests will include Misses Campbell, Evelyn and Velma Barnett, Marjorie Nunn and Mesdames Julian Burns, Tom Moss and Charles Mitchell.

Misses Evelyn and Velma Barnett will be hostesses at a bridge-tea Saturday afternoon, October 11, at their home on Sycamore street. Mrs. A. G. Barnett, mother of the hostess, will assist in entertaining. The guests will include Misses Campbell, Martha Overton, Mary Louise Reitz, Kathleen Tally, Kitty West, Jewell Campbell, Marjorie Nunn and Mesdames Joel Dean, Julian Burns, Tom Moss, Charles Mitchell, Nellie Johnson, J. D. Campbell and A. G. Barnett, Jr.

Mrs. Paul Coleman To Honor Daughter.

KAPPA DELTAS HOSTESSES TO SERIES OF SOCIAL GAYETIES

Miss Addy Munday Heads Committee on Arrangements

Atlanta Alumnae Association of Kappa Delta national sorority in conjunction with the Alpha Tau chapter of Kappa Delta at Oglethorpe University entertains at a series of social affairs this week in honor of the group of Oglethorpe girls being rushed for membership in Alpha Tau chapter. In charge of the activities is Miss Addy Munday, of Augusta, recently elected president of the alumnae association, who is spending the winter in Atlanta as the guest of her sister, Mrs. W. T. Wilson, at her home on Muscogee avenue, and will be assisted by Miss Gertrude Murray, president of Alpha Tau chapter, and other officers of the alumnae, including Mrs. Phillip Graves, vice president; Miss Frances Spalding, secretary, and Miss Martha Buchanan, treasurer.

Alpha Tau chapter entertains this evening at a dance at the home of Miss Jean Nutting on Fifteenth street, the guests to include the rushees, members of the alumnae, and active members and a group of young men. Friday evening a banquet will be held at the Piedmont Driving Club, the Alpha Tau chapter members being hostesses, to which members of the alumnae are invited, and reservations may be made by calling Miss Martha Buchanan at Hemlock 1486.

The alumnae entertained yesterday afternoon at a reception at the home of Mrs. W. T. ## Miss Louise Hays and Dr. Gaston Wed at Montezuma Ceremony

MONTENZUMA, Ga., Oct. 8.—The marriage of Miss Louise Hays and Dr. Joseph Harper Gaston, of New York city, was solemnized today at high noon ceremony in the First Methodist church. The bride was escorted by Dr. Tom Ed Davenport, of Brunswick, cousin of the bride, in the presence of a fashionable gathering of relatives and friends. The altar was banked in stately palms, and pedestal baskets held pink cosmos. A musical program was rendered prior to the entrance of the bride party and the wedding march from "Lohengrin" was played for the processional and Mendelssohn's for the recessional.

Bridal Party.
Felder Frederick, of Marshallville; Dr. Joe McGee, of Columbus, and Dr. John Donald Wade, of Nashville, Tenn., were ushers. The bridesmaids were Miss Lucy Botton Frederick, of Marshallville; Miss Doris Gaston, of Greenville; Miss George Walker, of Lynchburg, Va.; Mrs. Richard E. Freerick, of Albany; Miss Clara Cole, of Newnan; Miss Louise Botton, of Nashville, Tenn.; Mrs. Leonard Wallace, of Madison; Mrs. Ed Hollis, of Newnan; Mrs. Iverson Bowman, of Montgomery, Ala., and Miss Martha Smith, of Athens. They wore gowns of green satin made princess style and ankle-length, and hats of green felt. The bride carried bouquets of pink cosmos showered with pink tulle and asparagus fern. Miss Martha Guttenberger, of Macon, was maid of honor, and Mrs. Merritt Pound, of Athens, matron of honor. They wore pink satin gowns and carried pink cosmos showered with pink tulle and asparagus fern.

Lovely Bride.
The bride was given in marriage by her brother, James E. Hays, and was radiantly lovely in her bridal robe of white satin, fashioned princess style with a graceful train, the filmy tulle veil being fastened to her hair by a cap of duchess lace and orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white roses showered in valley lilies, and the gown was worn by her mother, Mrs. James E. Hays, on her wedding day some 28 years ago, when, at the late Mr. Hays in Marshallville, Ga., Dr. Gaston was his best man John Leverett, of Quincy, Fla.

Mrs. Hays, mother of the bride, wore black lace veiling black satin and a shoulder bouquet of orchids. Mrs. Oscar McKenzie, aunt of the bride, was gowned in blue chiffon, a shoulder bouquet of orchids completing her costume.

The ceremony at the church was followed by a breakfast for the wedding party and immediate families at the home of the bride. After November 1 Dr. and Mrs. Gaston will be at home at 315 East Sixty-eighth street, New York.

WOMEN HAVE LEARNED TRUTH ABOUT CHOOSING THEIR FACE POWDER

A few months back, skin types were unknown. A woman couldn't understand why the same face powder beautified her friend's face, yet looked streaky and unnatural on her own. Today . . . it's different. Now women know that their skin belongs to one of three types—oily, dry, normal—and they insist on face powder made especially for their type.

That is why you see smart women everywhere using Plough's Face Powder. For Plough has created three distinctive powders—a powder for each type of skin—and one was made especially for you.

When you smooth on your own Plough Face Powder you will be thrilled to see how evenly it goes on; how caressingly it clings; how cleverly it hides those little blemishes and brings out beauty and charm you never dreamed you possessed.

FOR OILY SKIN—Choose Plough's "Incense of Flowers" Face Powder, heavy texture in the oval box, 75c.

FOR DRY SKIN—Choose Plough's "Favorite Bouquet" Face Powder, light texture in the square box, 90c.

FOR NORMAL SKIN—Choose Plough's "Exquisite" Face Powder, medium texture in the round box, 50c.

Each of Plough's 3 Face Powders comes in White, Flesh, Pink, Bronze, and Sun-Tan tints—and each is sensibly priced wherever beauty creations are sold.

Do you find cosmetics a considerable item of expense? Then you'll appreciate what America's wisest shoppers have learned: The striking partiality of women everywhere for Plough's 3 Face Powders has enabled Plough to offer you the finest quality at sensible prices.

Soap Exhibition At High Museum Attracts Many

Art lovers, admirers of the unique and interesting, are visiting the High Museum of Art for a glimpse of the exhibition of soap sculpture which includes prize-winning pieces exhibited in the national contest conducted recently by the National Small Sculpture Society. The sculptured models, which have been chiseled from small white cakes of soap, include bas-reliefs, spirited figures of animals, original and novel figure models, and heads. The work was contributed by amateurs, professionals and school children, and afford evidence of the widespread interest in art. The museum is open to the public from 9 until 12 o'clock and from 1 until 4 o'clock throughout the week; from 7 to 9 o'clock Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings, and from 3 to 5 o'clock Sunday afternoons.

Brig. Gen. Estes and Mrs. Estes Entertain at Reception Oct. 15

FORT McPHERSON, Oct. 8.—An entertainment which will center the interest of the military contingent will be the reception to be given by Brigadier General George H. Estes, U. S. A., and Mrs. Estes at the Officers' Club at Fort McPherson in honor of General J. L. DeWitt and Mrs. DeWitt, Wednesday, October 15, from 4 to 6 o'clock. These distinguished guests will arrive in Atlanta for a brief stay and the reception in their honor will be a brilliant event. General DeWitt is one of the outstanding army officers in the service and is quartermaster general, and he and Mrs. DeWitt have a host of friends among the military contingent who are interested to know of their arrival.

Riding Class.

The ladies' riding class meets at the most riding ring Saturday morning at 9:15 o'clock, with Lieutenant Charles Tanden as instructor. This section has two afternoon sessions each week on Tuesdays and Thursdays and one morning session on Saturday. The afternoon classes will meet at 3:15 o'clock and any of the military set who are interested in riding are invited to attend. Among those who have already signed up for the course are Miss Mary Blanchard, Miss Evelyn Pate, Miss Marjorie Ripley, Miss Mary Bach, Miss Doris Macklin, Miss Rosa Peck, Miss Virginia East and Miss Jackie Eastard.

The morning section of the equitation class met Wednesday and in spite of the rain and heavy going the entire personnel of the class was present. The meeting was held in the riding hall and after a workout the class explored the trails around the reservation.

An interesting member of the class is the attractive Mrs. Irving Carr, who has recently arrived from Washington, D. C., for station in Atlanta, where Colonel Carr is on duty at the fourth corps area headquarters. Colonel Carr and Mrs. Carr are making their home at the Georgian Terrace, where they are proving popular additions to the civilian and military social circles. Miss Josephine Blanchard is a member of the class and handled her mount, Clarice, with a light hand. She and the charming Miss Aline Williams, who rode her private mount, Dan S., will make quite interesting entries in the horse show rings this spring. Miss Williams is the daughter of Lieutenant E. S. Williams and Mrs. Williams and Miss Blanchard is the daughter of Colonel Robert Blanchard and Mrs. Blanchard.

On Thursday's social calendar is the bridge-luncheon to be given by Mrs. Francis Fuller at her quarters at the post. The guests will include ten members of the military set.

The mounted events which have been a part of the sports day program at the Southeastern Fair are postponed until Friday afternoon, in view of the muddy track and the danger of jumping on a clay track in wet weather.

A number of the army group have been interested spectators at the performances at the Erlanger theater. The matinee Wednesday afternoon was attended by a group of the carriage and social set and the evening performances have been well attended by the army set.

You can rely on Kotex—this shaped sanitary protection gives real comfort and security

Kotex is rounded and tapered to fit; it stays soft; it deodorizes thoroughly.

YOU never know old-time fears and worries when Kotex is your sanitary protection. You can go right on enjoying the activities that mean so much to you . . . wear lovely frocks, with no hint of self-consciousness.

Because Kotex is shaped to fit inconspicuously. It deodorizes. It is soft—and it stays soft. Every detail has been scientifically worked out for your comfort.

SHERLOCK HOLMES—The Musgrave Ritual.

Holmes Reconstructs.

By SIR ARTHUR CONAN DOYLE

"For two of them, and one a woman, it must have been heavy work raising that stone, Watson," Holmes said. He was continuing to reconstruct what happened in the old cellar of the Musgrave manor house when Brunton persuaded Rachel Howells to help him in his treasure-hunt. "Probably they tried the mallet first," Holmes went on...

"You will remember that a burly Sussex policeman and I had found the stone no light job. No doubt the pair were well-nigh frantic at their vain attempts to move the stone. What would they do to assist them? Probably what I should have done myself..."

"I wrote and examined carefully the pieces of wood that were scattered around on the floor. Almost at once I came upon what I expected..."

"One piece of wood about three feet in length was very much rubbed on one end. Several other pieces, I noticed, were flattened at the sides as if they had been compressed by some considerable weight..."

Georgia Boy is Strongest

"My son, David, suffered with his stomach and bowels until he was quite listless and weak," says Mrs. M. Austin, 1443 Fairbanks St., Atlanta.

"Now it's a different story as you can see from his picture. He's strong and full of life. I gave him California Fig Syrup because mother used it. It increased his appetite, helped him wonderfully. Since then I have used California Fig Syrup with both my children for colds and upsets."

To show how California Fig Syrup acts to build-up and strengthen health, headachy, constipated children through giving tone and strength to weak stomach and bowels, nothing could be more convincing than praise like this.

Your doctor will approve the use of this pure vegetable product—as often as an impure, bitter, coated tongue, listlessness, feverishness or lack of appetite warn of constipation—or to keep bowels from clogging during colds or children's diseases.

When buying, look for the word California on carton and bottle. That marks the genuine.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

THE BATTLE THAT DIDN'T END.

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.
In strength doth youth take boastful pride,
And scorns to run away or hide.
—Old Mother Nature.

Never had there been such a battle in the Green Forest as the battle between Lightfoot the Deer and the strange Deer who had suddenly appeared. For a time they would separate every once in a while for a moment's rest; then come together again, rising on their hind feet to strike with their fore feet; and then, head to head, pushing with all their might. He had the experience, but the stranger had the advantage of youth. So, after all, they were quite evenly matched. All the little people of the Green Forest who could get there were present looking on. Somehow, the news had spread. As you know, all the Squirrel cousins were present. They were all in the trees, even Striped Chipmunk and Impy the black chipmunk. Sammy Jay and Blacky the Crow were present almost from the start. The feathered folk came. Billy Possum, Bobby Coon, Billy Mink from the Laughing Brook, which was not far away; Reddy Fox, Mrs. Reddy, Old Man Coyote, Buster Bear, and Yowie the Rabbit, all were looking on. No one made a sound. The only sounds were the snorts of the two fighters and the clash of their antlers and the stamping of their feet.

It was shortly after jolly, round, red Mr. Sun began his daily climb up into the blue, blue sky that the battle started. When he was right overhead, looking down, they were still there, head to head, pushing and shoving. Never had a battle been known to last so long. It was Reddy Fox who first noticed something odd on the part of the two fighters.

"Do you notice that they don't back off any more?" said he to Mrs. Reddy. "When they stop to rest they keep head to head. I wonder if each is afraid that the other may run away. See, they've stopped to rest now!"

So, through the two fighters' feet, standing still head to head and nose to nose. They were panting for breath. It was plain to see that both were tired. They were very tired. Neither one seemed to be hurt much. There were a few marks of sharp horns, but neither was hurt badly. For a little while they stood there, heads down, forehead to forehead. Then Lightfoot once more began to push. The stranger backed a little way. Then he set his legs and strained and pushed, and Lightfoot went back a little way. Both slipped down to their knees and continued to push. It was after noon. One by one the onlookers slipped away to get something to eat. One by one they returned to find the two fighters still at it. It was growing late. Jolly, round, red Mr. Sun was close to the Purple Hills, behind which he would go to bed. The Black Shadows crept out across the Green Meadows and into the Green Forest. They found the two fighters still standing head to head, now and then pushing a little, but for the most part standing there, tired out, yet neither seeming willing to quit. Pretty Mrs. Lightfoot was still looking on, but there was a queer expression on her face. It was as if there were something she did not understand.

The little people of the day departed for their homes; the little people of the night took their places. A great wonder took possession of all. Handsome Lightfoot and the equally handsome strange Deer had fought all day and it looked as if they intended to fight all night.

The next story: "Sammy Jay Discovers the Truth."

Wilbur Rowand Gives Recital.

An organ recital of rare loveliness was that of Wilbur Hartzell Rowand, head of the organ department of Shorter College, Rome, which was given at Druid Hills Baptist church Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Georgia chapter of the American Guild of Organists, of which Joseph Ragan is dean. Mr. Rowand was assisted at the piano by Mrs. Frances Stovall Felder, organist of the church. Mr. Rowand proved himself master of his instrument. A fine technique produced a clean, clear, though smooth, performance throughout the program. His playing was portrayed musicianship and keen intellect, and his dignified yet graceful style of playing won the highest respect from a large audience of appreciative listeners. Mr. Rowand possesses a pedal technique that is noteworthy.

In the opening number, Franck's "Choral in A Minor," an artistic interpretation, with exquisitely contrasting voices, produced a colorful orchestral effect. The second group included the ethereal, harp-like "Arabesque," Schely; the graceful, delicate "Minuetto" by Gigout; and Schumann's "Canon in B Minor," light, fantastical, yet classic. In Bonnet's "Etude de Concert," Mr. Rowand met strenuous demands of both keyboard technique and manipulation of the organ mechanics with ease.

An entrancing number, "Canon," by Karg-Elert, opened the third group with the rollicking, rhythmical "Scherzo" from the second symphony of Vierne following. A piece in modern style, "Impression," by Karg-Elert, created an unreal, dreamlike atmosphere. An admirable rendition of the favorite, "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes," arranged by Miles, followed. A fitting climax to the program was the symphonic piece for organ and piano by Clokey, with Mrs. Frances Stovall Felder at the piano. The first movement, "Dialogue," tossed themes from piano to organ with charming grace. The "Romance" blended both piano and organ into a beautiful unity, and the "Scherzo" movement made technical and dynamic demands from both artists. The "Intermezzo" displayed unique tonal imitation in the mocking answers to themes. The "Fugue," brilliant, sparkling, intensely vital, closed a most interesting number.

EARNshaw's GREAT HURLING STOPS CARLS, 7-1

JACKETS READY TO INVADE SKIBO CAMP FOR GAME

Thirty-Six Men Make Trip; Hart May Start Game.

By Ralph McGill.

Riding a tide of hope and courage, 36 Georgia Tech Yellow Jackets, with their coaches, trainers and supporters, will enter this morning along with breakfast time for Pittsburgh and a game Saturday with Carnegie Tech. Indications were that Jay Hart, young sophomore sensation, might start in place of Pat Barron. Coach Alexander declared it probable. He can shoot Barron, who has a bit more speed than Hart, at the Tartans when they have worn off some of the edge of their speed.

At least two sophomores will be in the starting backfield, Doug Graydon, the Arkansas Traveler, and Captain Earl Dunlap, veteran back, will be the only men in the backfield who have had their baptism of fire. "Sugar" Cain, fullback, and Barron or Hart will be the starting sophomores.

The line that got started against the South Carolina Gamecocks last Saturday will get the nod Saturday. That means that Tom Jones and Ed Herron will be at the ends; Frank Speer and Vance Marce at the tackles; Clint Ezell and Jim Brooke at guards; and Ike Farmer at center.

LONG PRACTICE. This lineup was announced by Coach W. A. Alexander late Wednesday afternoon as the squad concluded a long and arduous practice in a driving rain that had fallen all afternoon. The workout, the last one on the home lot before the game, was held behind the end zone seats on Grant field.

It was a furious one and seemingly included everything in the book, from fundamentals on up to the intricate defense against the lateral passes and the deceptive running attack used by Carnegie Tech.

SCRIMMAGE HELD. There was little room for scrimmage but they had one just the same, the varsity working on attack for a short time and then getting a long drill on the defense.

The varsity reserves drew the longest scrimmage of the afternoon.

"Most of them haven't been away from home before," said the jacket coach, "and the prospects of a trip to Pittsburgh had them excited and they had about forgot all they knew."

Following the scrimmage against the Gray Devils and the long and meticulous instructions as to defense, the varsity settled down to a signal drill. When that was done darkness had settled over the field but Bill Fincher, line coach, dragged out the big bucking sled and the squad had a session with it to serve as desert.

There were no casualties. Jerry Goldsmith, first string end, suffered a slightly sprained ankle but was reported to be in no danger of being crippled for the game. Mike Chambers, trainer, has the squad in unusually good condition and Goldsmith's injury is expected to be completely healed by Friday night.

GREAT SPIRIT. There was a magnificent spirit at the Flats as the workouts closed. The squad was huddling with glee as they drove the big bucking board sled and then gathered to hear the final instructions from Coach Alexander.

There is no trepidation on the jacket squad. Despite the opinions of the various experts, that the Jackets are likely to lose by a touchdown or so, the Jackets are going on to win. They believe they can.

Tech is sure to give the Plaid hosts of the Pittsburgh Tech eleven a great battle and victory, is not impossible at all.

YOUNGSTERS MAY RALLY. The Jackets' sophomores may find themselves. The entire team may. It did not find itself in the South Carolina game. The human equation is more evident on a young team than one which is organized and experienced.

The squad which is making the trip is made up of the following players: Ends—Tom Jones, Herron, Goldsmith, Isaacs, James Jones, and Williams.

Tackles—Marce, Speer, Holt, Harrison, Fincher and Corn.

Guards—Ezell, Edwards, Millman, McKee, Stalaker, Law and Davis.

Centers—Farmer, Nebbett and Dobbs.

Quarterbacks—Colvin, MacArthur and Ritchie.

Fullbacks—Strickland, Cain and Cherry.

In addition to the players and coaches, Joe Rhodes, indefatigable Tech supporter; L. W. (Chip) Robert, Fred Kauffman, veteran of Pittsburgh trips, and a number of other Tech supporters will make the trip.

The train leaves this morning at 7:30 o'clock and the Jackets will not reach Pittsburgh until 7:30 Friday morning. They will be quartered near the Pitt stadium where the game will be played.

Carnegie Tech Pushes Practice. PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 8.—Preparing for the invasion of the Golden Tornado of Georgia Tech, and their first major football game of the year in Pittsburgh, Carnegie Tech coaches are pushing their men feverishly in practice this week.

Despite the fact that 32 points were rolled up on Thiel College last Saturday, previous faults cropped out in wholesale quantities. The worst, of course, was the Flats' seeming in-

By Ed Danforth

Rain yesterday distorted the plans of coaches at Georgia and Georgia Tech to give their young men a knockdown-and-drag-out scrimmage before bundling them up for the barnstorming tour.

One more pounding session on dry ground would have been desirable. Yet it rains in New Haven and in Pittsburgh occasionally and it may have been just as well to let them see a good one before leaving home so that they might be prepared for any emergency.

Goodness knows there has been little enough precipitation down this way this year. Parents of very young children yesterday were kept busy explaining what rain was; the little ones thought it was lemonade.

JUST ONE THING WORSE.

And, boys, if anyone arises and suggests that because we had a long dry summer that the fall will be wet and full of rainy Saturdays, fell him with the nearest black-jack. There is one thing worse than night football. Flood lights are not nearly so bad as floods on the pigskin pastime. (Title copyrighted; all rights reserved.)

SMART LADS, THESE.

The Count of North Atlanta must have known something. He mailed the following message yesterday before the Cards fell: "St. Louis can't win. It just ain't in the Cards."

Another interesting angle on the series is presented by Bill McGrunder, the sophisticated soda baron of Marietta street. Bill is an expert on inside baseball, football, golf, boxing and wrestling. He was the savant who called the turn in the Red-White Sox series before a dollar bill had been placed under a pillow.

Bill says of this series: "After the Athletics got two games up they let the Cards get even, so they would have to play six games and all would get free transportation back east. Most of the Cards live in the east anyhow, so they were willing."

HARD ON THE WINNERS.

Now that Gabby Street has won a pennant it is not improbable that the Cardinal management will find a knothole in his contract and let him go. However, they may be lenient since he lost the series. Nowhere in the world is success so harshly penalized as in St. Louis. Ask Rogers Hornsby and Bill McKechnie.

DARK DAYS ARE AHEAD.

Charley Bachman, head coach at University of Florida, like his former coach, Knute Rockne, views with alarm the ironclad legislation that forces a pause of a second in the shift. He sees therein a forced return to the old days of beefy guards and ox fullbacks. He sees deception smothered by power and consequent injuries to players.

"The only real change now for clever open play," Coach Bachman said not long ago, "is in the lateral pass."

"This play will be stressed this year by coaches who still like to emphasize speed and quick thinking in their attack. But mark my word, when the rules committee meets next winter the coaches of the strong back-week mind school will begin complaining about the lateral pass and seek legislation to kill it. They cannot stand by and see fast teams succeed with plays that require hours and hours of drill."

"The death blow to the open game was struck when the rules committee abolished the screened forward pass. That was the greatest play ever invented for football. It was difficult to execute. It required long periods of practice. It was almost impossible to break up. The spectator could follow every detail of it. It produced long gains and touchdowns. What more could have been desired?"

"The best interests of the game are met when scoring is frequent. The public likes action and the boys enjoy the thrill and the suspense of maintaining a lead."

"But the lazy coaches could not devise a defense against it and were not willing to take the trouble to develop the play themselves. So they forced it out of the game."

"As football stands now, with the forward pass hedged about with restrictions and penalties and a good defense possible against every running play, the game has gone back toward the dark ages. When the lazy coaches can get rid of the lateral pass the game will have been ruined for the public. The great body of football fans should protect themselves in some way against it."

Coach Bachman is even more pessimistic over the outlook than is Brother Rockne. And, sad to relate, the public never bothers about the rules from one season to the next.

The only remedy is to allow the hard-headed coaches to have their own way with the rules and then read the verdict at the turnstiles. A falling off in football attendance for one year would influence the action of the succeeding rules committee.

Florida Fullback Brilliant To Date

Grid Competition Keen at Clemson

GAINESVILLE, Oct. 8.—Ed Sauls, member of the great halfback team of Bertha and Sauls, of the University of Florida, turned in another colorful performance in the 'Gators recent victory over North Carolina State.

Receiving a kick-off on his own 5-yard line, Sauls raced for 61 yards before being downed. On the next play, he swept around end for 34 yards and a touchdown, covering in two successive runs a distance of 95 yards for one of the two touchdowns he made during the game.

The spectacular ball carrying, fine blocking, and all-around play of Captain Bertha and Sauls has much impressed critics of southern football.

BULLDOGS OFF TO YALE GAME AFTER SKIRMISH

Coach Mehre Takes 30 Men for Battle Saturday in Yale Bowl.

By Ed Danforth.

CONSTITUTION Sports Editor. EN ROUTE WITH GEORGIA FOOTBALL TEAM. Oct. 8.—Once again the Bulldogs of Georgia, young and happy and hungry for football, are riding north on the Seaboard bound for the Yale bowl. There they will grapple with the Blue Saturday afternoon in a continuation of what has become the most firmly established intercollegiate series on the gridiron calendar—a series that has a fine traditional background.

The Bulldogs left Athens tonight in a misting rain with the yells of students and the blare of the band ringing shrill on the damp air. They were tired from a wearing scrimmage they had taken in the rain on Sanford field in the afternoon and dived immediately into their berths. With two easy victories behind them they were keen to battle a big and tough foreman who could stand up and trade licks with them.

Only 30 Bulldogs make the trip. It is the smallest squad Georgia ever carried on one of these expeditions into the north. Harry Mehre, head coach, was standing in the train shed a few minutes ago, watching his men tumble aboard. "So you are going to Yale to play this year," the father of one of the varsity tackles remarked.

RETURN GAME. "Well, we figured that Yale played such a good game here last fall that we ought to go up there and play them this time," Coach Mehre responded with mock seriousness. The father of the varsity tackle agreed that was the right thing to do.

Once upon a time this riding northward toward New Haven was just a long train ride for a little experience. Every able bodied man on the varsity squad was taken along so that if the going got too tough valuable varsity men could be removed from the danger zone and saved for the conference games later on.

DIFFERENT NOW.

It is different now. Georgia has beaten Yale in the bowl. Georgia has defeated Yale in Athens. The game is now one of the objectives of the Bulldogs. Georgia is going to New Haven this time to shoot both barrels and for a fact has not unpraiseworthy a good game here last year. The Bulldogs thrumped Yale last year in Sanford field and if Yale has a greatly improved team, so has Georgia. No reason can be found why this time the issue in doubt until the final gun and Georgia a good chance to win.

The squad is as follows: Center: Tassapouost, McWhorter, and Collins; guards, Bennett, Patterson, Hazlehurst, Leathers and Maddox; tackles, Rose, Hamrick, Davis, Lynn and Thornton; end, Captain Maffett; Smith, Miller, Kelley and Crenshaw; quarterbacks, Downes, Sullivan and Moran; halfbacks, Davidson, Most, Dickson, Chandler, Vaughn and Keyes; fullbacks, Roberts, Stofnoff and Gilmore. Twelve of the squad going to Yale are Sophomores and eleven are Juniors.

Not a Bulldog is injured. The full strength of the best squad Georgia ever had will be thrown at Yale Saturday. This much was assured by Coach Mehre called off a long scrimmage at early dusk and not a man limped off the field. Many a time Georgia has faced forth with its shots atrophied, but this year they have every man ready to play his best.

YARDS WORKS OUT. The varsity team favor of them—had a defensive trip against Yale passes, then a serious workout against Yale plays. The blue jersey scrubs have been running Yale plays for two weeks and know how. The scrubs at Sanford field are big and husky. The line averages close to 200 pounds and in the backfield are several men who earlier in the season were on the varsity squad and have run about of the faculty. The scrubs have given the varsity ideal preparation for the game.

A steady rain was falling during the scrimmage and when the

Many Atlantans Will Make Trek To 'Bulldog' Game

When the Georgia Bulldogs take the field Saturday afternoon in New Haven, Conn., against the Yale Bulldogs they will not be without a large following in the eastern city, for more than 30 Atlantans will make the trip. They will leave on the "Georgia Special" at 5 o'clock this afternoon from Brookwood station. Two special cars have been chartered and will become a part of the Birmingham Special.

A reduced round-trip fare has been authorized by officials of the Southern railroad and others desiring to make the trip can make reservations early today.

Among those who will go are: Stewart Witham and wife, Dr. T. P. Hinman, Jr., Frank Fleming and wife, Fitzhugh Knox, Jr., Har- old Hirsch, Dr. Frank Boland, his wife and two sons, Joe and Kelly, both former Georgia football stars, Miss Helen Calloway, Miss Palmer Dallas and John Allen and wife.

GREAT PUNTER. CHARLOTTE, N. C., Oct. 8.—Junior Armstrong is the first real punter Clemson has had since Josh Cody became coach there.

Tech High and Madison Aggies, winner of the northern division of the Chicago Cubs, has been voted the most valuable player of the National league by a committee of the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

The appearance here of the Mack should be a real feature of Atlanta's sports year.

WILSON CHOSEN MOST VALUABLE

Chicago Cubs' Slugging Star Wins Honors in National League.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Hack Wilson, slugging center fielder of the Chicago Cubs, has been voted the most valuable player of the National league by a committee of the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

Wilson, who smashed all National league home run records this year and dethroned Babe Ruth as the major league home run king, won the distinction after a close contest with Frankie Frisch, captain of the St. Louis Cardinals, and Bill Terry, first baseman of the New York Giants, and the new National league batting champion.

The election, although made by the same committee that functioned on behalf of the National league in 1929, was unofficial inasmuch as the annual custom of picking the most valuable player and rewarding him with $1,000. However, William L. Yeck, president of the Chicago Cubs, announced that the Chicago club would give Wilson the $1,000.

Wilson, although he received only one vote for first place, had a total of 70 points, five of the eight writers picking him for second place, one for third and another fourth. Frisch received four votes for first place and a total of 64 points, while Terry was the first choice of three of the writers and had a total of 58 points.

Wilson led both leagues in home runs with a total of 58. He created a new all-time major league record for runs batted in, totaling 100, and his batting average was .358.

'Big' Little Signs With Tiger Club

"Big" Little, former Georgia Tech athlete, is to have his shot at major league baseball next spring. It was announced Wednesday that Little had signed a Detroit Tigers contract and that he would report to the Bengal spring training camp for inspection, later to be sent out for seasoning or to travel with the Tigers as his showing in camp warranted.

Little, a husky right-hander, was an effective pitcher at the Flats in 1929, but was declared ineligible at the start of the 1930 season. He played football at Tech in addition to his work on the diamond.

NEW ATTACK. Nebraska has another heavy team but will rely on a forward-passing attack to gain ground this year.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 8.—(AP)—A long defense scrimmage against Notre Dame formations staged by the scrubs was given the Navy football team today in the final hard workout in preparation for the clash at South Bend Saturday.

Lou Kira, the most consistent performer of the Middle backfield, who sustained a knee injury in yesterday's scrimmage, was back in the lineup with nothing but a little stiffness as the result.

ST. LOUIS HELD EIGHT INNINGS WITHOUT A RUN

Macks' Big Bats Ring Out as Battle for Title Is Ended.

By Grantland Rice.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8.—The big blast crashed again in Philadelphia this afternoon and with George Earnshaw pitching his third great game, Connie Mack moved forward into his fifth world series championship and his second in a row.

The master manager of all time juggled five star ball players into a pennant and he then juggled them through another world series against a club that fought hard at home but had no chance on eastern turf.

In the first game of this series the Athletics made five hits that netted 17 bases and 8 runs. In the final battle at Shibe Park, they made seven hits for a total of 19 bases that netted seven runs and a 7-1 victory for Earnshaw.

So it happened that in the first and last games of the series, the Athletics lashed out every blow for extra bases. There was no flabby single to break up the dull bomb of the long wallop. In these two games, the decisive ones of the series, they made 12 hits for a total of 36 bases, an average of three bases for every hit made. Baseball has known nothing like that since Abner Doubleday figured out the game more years ago than I care to remember now.

In this final game the Cardinals never had a chance. They were smothered and outclassed from the jump. They couldn't hit big George Earnshaw with a grand slam and Mr. Mack's big manlier peeled the hide off Hallahan and Johnston, who attempted to stem the Athletic charge. St. Louis had nothing to stop the champions while Earnshaw was riding along with more stuff than the Cardinals have seen all year. He held them to three hits until the ninth when he began to falter a little with a shut-out in sight under the strain of closing out the show.

ANOTHER CROWN.

So Connie Mack, the king of all the managers, one of the ablest directors of all time, takes over another world's championship. No man who knows Mack and his record could begrudge him this achievement.

There are not many left like him, whether you turn to professional or amateur sports. He belongs with the select, of which there are just a few in this modern world. He had to engineer two world championships, a pennant race and he had to call on the same two to win a world series in four out of six games.

It was all George and his crew. They started and they finished. They gave him the jump and they rode his entry down the stretch. They worked out five of the six games and won four of the five they started and finished. They were iron men with iron arms and iron hearts. They asked for no relief. They only needed one day's intermission and they took care of the rest.

HALLAHAN NOT SAME. The Victor Bill Hallahan who shut out the Athletics in St. Louis was a far different performer today. He has been one of the greatest pinch hitters of the game. He has done his share for St. Louis in his first in the first round of the final game when Jimmy

PETRELS LEAVE FOR NIGHT GAME

Oglethorpe Squad Ready for Clash With Manhattan College.

By Jack Troy.

A rousing send-off unaffected by dreary skies and a drizzling rain, sped Oglethorpe's Petrels on their way to New York and their Friday night game with Manhattan College late Wednesday afternoon.

The squad of 25 players, well-conditioned and with plays clicking off with a snap, will be called upon to battle a strong Jasper eleven in its own back yard. Last year the Petrels played hosts and won by a score of 14 to 3.

Returning from an expedition which he saw the Jaspers play, Backfield Coach Nutty Campbell began singing the blues to the Petrels Monday, and he was still yodeling as the squad went off Wednesday over the wet rails Wednesday afternoon.

Coach Harry Robertson drilled his men thoroughly against Manhattan in the heavy practices of Monday and Tuesday, however, and they broke up the formations, as presented by the freshmen, with a fair degree of consistency.

Ray Walker, stellar sophomore quarterback, is slated to be in a regular backfield slot against Manhattan. He has been a steady performer in the lineups to come around. The rest of the lineup is intact, however, and includes: Sperry and Woodward, halfbacks; Meyers, fullback; Bryan and McKissick, ends; Church and Kenzie, tackles; Fulton and Patrick, guards; and Morrow, center.

The Petrels will hold one practice under the gleaming lights prior to the game, being slated to work out on the Polo grounds Thursday night. Friday afternoon the boys, together with the distinguished delegation of Georgia fans accompanying them, will receive Mayor Jimmy Walker's official welcome at the city hall, and several hours later New York's first night football game will get under way.

During the absence of the varsity squad, the freshmen and players not making the trip will practice daily under the direction of Coaches Bell and Overton.

Loss of Snead May Hurt Yale Chances Saturday, Says Trumbull

BLUE WILL NEED FULL STRENGTH TO LICK GEORGIA

Booth To Cavort Behind Powerful Line; Irish Should Sink Navy.

By Walter Trumbull.

(Copyright, 1930, by The Constitution for the North American Newspaper Alliance.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Some pretty tough football games come early this year. Saturday will bring a number of them. For example, there is that Yale-Georgia game.

Yale looks strong this year. Some say the Blue is just as strong as Albie Booth, but Booth couldn't make the runs he has been making unless he had a line in front of him. Yale has more than Booth and should not again have to lower its colors to Georgia as it did last year.

However, I do not doubt that Georgia will arrive in New Haven loaded for Bulldogs. And it isn't going to do Yale any good to have Snead on the sidelines. Snead is a good back, and the Blue is likely to need its full strength against what appears to be one of the best teams in the south. This should be a football game.

Pennsylvania and Columbia should have fairly easy games this year. Penn has not only a powerful eleven, but plenty of reserves. Princeton may have its hands full with Brown, and Boston college usually gives Fordham trouble. New York University is looking for a hard game with Villanova, but Chick Mehan's pupils should win.

CORNELL STRONG. Cornell and Harvard are strong this season. Dobie is likely to have a better eleven at Ithaca than he has had in some seasons, because it looks as if he had more material. Give Dobie the material and he will turn out a team. I take a special interest in Harvard, because I met and talked with Ben Pickner and Eddie Mays this summer, and Alfred Kidder, Jr., a member of the Crimson squad, is a friend of mine. Any team with Pickner at center and Mays and Wood in the backfield is an eleven to command respect.

The Purdue-Michigan game should be a close contest. Michigan certainly must improve over the showing it made with Michigan State, and Purdue's line must work more as a unit than it did against Baylor.

IRISH SHOULD WIN. Notre Dame should beat Navy, but the Muddies have a way of unexpected rising to the heights. They may offer more opposition than I believe they will. Northwestern is out for a conference championship this season, but Ohio State has shown more power than it was supposed to possess and promises to make trouble. If Wisconsin is as good as they tell me it is, the badgers should be too strong for Chicago, unless the Maroons can pass their way to victory.

Will Rogers Wires About His Team

LAWRENCE, Kan., Oct. 8.—(P)—Will Rogers would like to join the rest of the Cherokee Friday in watching Haskell institute break a football truce of nearly three decades with the University of Kansas.

The cowboy humorist will miss the game and two-day powwow of the tribesmen here because movie-making forbids.

"That's about all there is in my life nowadays. But anyhow my injuries have got to stick together. I still got hopes of getting back the country some day. The republicans can't make a living on it."

MOREHOUSE SET FOR KNOXVILLE

The Morehouse College football squad will close its preparations for the Knoxville College game Friday afternoon with a short drill today.

Rumor has it that Coach Hawkins, mentor for the Tennessee outfit, will bring the strongest team ever to represent the school and indications are that the game will be closely contested, with Morehouse holding a slight edge by reason of its powerful backfield.

Morehouse has been drilling to meet the fast shifting plays of the visitors. Two hard scrimmages have been held and the line has been revamped in a final effort to strengthen what critics have called a "risky paper wall." In their last workout the line seemed to be holding well. Davis, a veteran tackle, and Williams, at center, stood out prominently in the workouts, although the entire variety showed up well against the second team, which was using Knoxville players.

Coach Hawkins and a squad of 30 men, team physicians and his assistant coaches, will arrive today.

Coaches Nicks and Lockhart are putting the finishing touches on the Morris Brown football team for their game with the Alabama State Teachers' College at Spiller's field Saturday afternoon.

Several injured stars who did not see service last week will probably play Saturday. Injuries kept all but one letterman out of last week's game. The reserves, however, profited by their experience and should be more valuable for it.

Reports from the Teachers' camp indicate that the Alabama eleven will be one of the strongest teams ever mounded together there. This year's edition is said to have a powerful offense, something which has been lacking in the past.

A special section of the grandstand will be reserved for white fans.

CRIPPLED VOLTS TURN THOUGHTS TO MISSISSIPPI

Stars' Injuries Makes Ole Miss Anything But Pushover.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 8.—After the game with the Centre Colonels on Saturday, the Fighting Volunteers of Tennessee were ready to qualify as charter members of the 1930 football ambulance corps.

The game with the Centre Colonels was the most disastrous of the day when the name of Ole Miss was a charm to work wonders, but they did not know that the famous Ole Miss ghost had entered into the bodies, the legs, and the fists of eleven men on the field, plus a few more on the bench.

Fritz Brandt and Paul Hug, veteran ends who have served the referee's whistle for the past two years, are both on crutches, and Brandt has the knee in a cast.

As if it weren't enough to lose two all-Southern ends at one crack, Derryberry, who has been the most dependable reserve of the team for the past year, will not be ready for duty for some time. A cut below the eye was his souvenir of the fray.

Several minor injuries, which the boys simply take as their share of the game, but which Tennessee Saturday, are painful but are not expected to keep any other men from the game with Ole Miss next Saturday.

Maybe it was the injuries; maybe it was the humidity; maybe it was—what's the use? Tennessee's all-around playing was considerably below standard Saturday.

The blocking and tackling in which Tennessee has always felt a justifiable pride, was halfhearted and got the boys just exactly nowhere. The reserves completely outplayed the varsity in these departments.

There will be several changes in the line-up for the Ole Miss game this coming Saturday. Charlie Kohlbase and Hugh (Hard Rock) Faust, who played well Saturday, will be given a chance to show what they can do with the varsity combination.

Tennessee is worried about Ole Miss, for in the opinion of the Tennessee coaches, Ole Miss is a stronger team than it seemed in the game with Alabama last Saturday. In Saturday's game three of the Ole Miss stars were on the bench with injuries, but are expected to be back in for Tennessee.

Ordinarily, the Vols would be getting ready for Alabama at this time, but as things are Tennessee is devoting quite a little time and thought to getting ready for Ole Miss and is letting the Alabama problem rest until next week.

Stage Fright Bugaboo Not To Worry Georgia

Seasoned in Big-Time Warfare, Southerners Should Be at Best in Bowl Saturday.

By Henry McLenore, United News Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—(UN)—Stage fright—that most distressing psychological ailment which renders actors helpless and football teams more so—will not be part of Georgia's equipment Saturday when the southerners meet Yale at New Haven in the feature game of the Atlantic seaboard.

If you have ever seen a normally good eleven go to pieces when stricken with the malady, you know just how much brighter are Georgia's chances with the stage fright business buried far away in Athens' red-clay hills.

There was a time not so far distant, however, when almost any southern eleven upon entering a large eastern stadium and seeing what the radio announcers love to describe as the "sea of faces" would all but lose the game right then and there.

This form of stage fright has been almost as many southern teams in intercollegiate games as forward passes and end runs. It hurt Georgia Tech in the years the Engineers came east for Pitt State. It handicapped Florida in its game with Army, and Georgia felt the chillish symptoms of the ailment in its earlier losses.

Most of this fright has now vanished from Dixie teams, thanks to the recognition given southern football, the victories of Alabama and Georgia Tech in Rose Bowl games, and the general success of southern teams in intercollegiate strife.

EXIT COMPLEX. If the Georgians had an inferiority complex it was removed last year when Yale traveled to Athens and was kicked long and hard, 35 to 0.

With both team, boasting experienced material, Saturday's game promises to be something in the nature of a "natural." Georgia will be in there trying to achieve the distinction of being one of the few teams outside of Harvard and Princeton ever to defeat the Blue tights in succession, while Yale will be in there trying to wipe out the memory of that 1929 loss.

THEN THERE'S BUSTER. For use in an emergency Georgia has a sophomore, Buster Mott, who is rated as one of the best backfield runners in the south. Playing against Georgetown two weeks ago Mott, the first time he grabbed the ball, slipped off tackle for 60 yards. A few minutes later he intercepted a pass and was off on a similar jaunt.

Yale, despite a wealth of great backs, will again offer little Albie Booth as its main offensive threat. A funny thing about Booth and Georgia—the southerners don't respect his ability simply because the mite, handicapped by the heat, was never able to get going in Athens last year.

If the southerners go into the game with the belief that Albie is just another football player, they are laying themselves open to a winter's supply of grief. Booth may be bottled up one time, but stopping him twice is quite another thing.

Eastern Net Star Enrolls at Oregon

BUGENE, Ore., Oct. 8.—(P)—Sidney B. Wood, Jr., New York, fourth ranking tennis player in the United States, has enrolled at the University of Oregon. Wood, 18 years old, reached the semi-finals of the recent national men's singles at Forest Hills.

Threat of Passes Worries Cornell

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 8.—(P)—Cornell's football team took to the air today in perfecting an attack for the Hampden-Sidney game Saturday. Coach Dodge had the scrubs using the favorite plays of the southerners against the varsity without much noticeable effect.

Hampden-Sidney worked tricky triple passes and end runs against the big red team last year, but Dobie isn't taking any chances this year.

BULLDOGS OFF TO YALE GAME AFTER SKIRMISH

Coach Mehre Takes 30 Men for Battle Saturday in Yale Bowl.

By Ed Danforth.

Varsity finally was transferred to offense against a freshman eleven brought up from the lower field to relieve the tired scrubs.

The Bulldogs were well prepared for rain if rain comes Saturday.

The Bulldogs backs were running very hard; the line was charging hard and blocking surely. The stimulus of the big game ahead had them working as if in a regular contest. Of all the linemen, however, Jim Hamrick, the lean tackle, looked best and of all the backs Homer Keyes, now a second stringer, stepped smartest.

Keyes is a wizard in a scattered field. Albie Booth himself can be no cleaver. Keyes, by the way, impersonated Albie last year on the scrubs and helped prepare the Bulldogs for that game.

Just what lineup will be used to start the game Coach Mehre has not indicated. The team will be taken through New York without stop to a point outside New Haven in Connecticut. They will be kept far removed from disturbing crowds and sounds. They will ride over by bus to practice in the bowl Friday afternoon, but then have their secret retreat for the night.

Defense Stressed In Yale Workout.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 8.—(P)—Coach Mal Stevens called off a scheduled scrimmage today to give Yale's varsity squad a light workout in fundamentals and forward passing.

A short supervised scrimmage, during which a defense was stressed for plays expected to be used Saturday by Georgia, rounded out the day's session.

The backfield which Stevens reorganized yesterday with McClellan as quarterback remained unchanged today and is expected to start against Georgia. Sullivan, Dunn and Crowley are the other members of this quartet. The make-up of Albie Booth's backfield, however, remained problematical.

Booth and Taylor retained their posts, but Beane and Muhfeld shared their positions with Ned Austen part of the time.

Gator Fans Strong For "Muddy" Waters

GAINESVILLE, Oct. 8.—The brilliant line play of Dale "Muddy" Waters, big Florida tackle, has been the subject of much comment about Gatorland this week.

Waters in the two opening games has been the outstanding lineman. His ferocious tackling and rugged defensive play, has tagged him as one of the south's greatest tackles this season.

Against North Carolina State at Tampa Saturday, Waters blocked one punt, and nearly stopped two more. Repeatedly he was down the field under kick to prevent any return, and one offense, his fine blocking enabled the ball carriers to gain much yardage.

The six-foot, two-inch, 195-pound lad from Indiana is playing his final campaign under Florida's Orange and Blue. Gator fans are firm in the belief that Waters is Dixie's fiercest tackler.

Missing Player Well Known in Thomasville

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Oct. 8.—William B. Robertson, baseball player, of Cross City, Fla., reported in a press dispatch from Savannah as missing, was a member of the Thomasville baseball team during one season, several years ago, and has friends here. He was in Thomasville on various occasions during the past summer, being then a member of the Perry, Fla., ball team in the South Georgia-North Florida Six-County league, in which organization the local team also had membership.

Giants' Catcher Hurt in Fight

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—(P)—Francis (Shanty) Hogan, catcher of the New York Giants, received several slash wounds today during an altercation with a negro elevator operator at an apartment house on West 79th street.

The elevator operator, Joseph Kink, 35 years old, was held on a charge of felonious assault.

Detectives were told the fight started when Hogan objected to the presence of Kink, who had been invited in for a moment at a party in the house. They said Kink later returned and attacked Hogan with a baseball bat and when this was wrenched from his grasp drew a knife.

MARYLAND TILT WORRIES U. N. C.

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Oct. 8.—Hard games with Georgia, Tennessee and Georgia Tech are just around the corner, but the North Carolina grid warriors aren't thinking about these things, for the Maryland game here Saturday looks tough enough in itself.

The Tarheels, with their star backs and weak line, with a big question mark for total strength, thought enough of the Maryland-Yale game. What Mr. Fetzner saw and related has put the Tarheels on their hardest week of training of the current season.

Maryland played Yale on even terms except when the All-American Booth was in the Yale backfield. Coach Fetzner reports, Maryland also made 14 first downs against Yale's 16.

The Maryland team, with a 175-pound line, and a fast, shifty set of backs, three of whom are good passers, is more powerful and versatile than last year.

They should give us plenty of trouble," Coach Fetzner summed up, recalling that "Maryland hasn't forgotten the 43-0 score last year."

IT'S ALL NEW TO HIM. CHARLOTTE, N. C., Oct. 8.—Johnny Justis, Clemson's captain, never played football before attending the college. He is from Cowpens, S. C., scene of the renowned Revolutionary War battle that bears that name.

PURDUE PROSPECTS. Purdue has material for another good line and two of the stars of the 1929 backfield.

FINE RESERVES TO MEAN MUCH IN TIDE SEASON

ALABAMA NOW HAS THREE Full Team at Work for Sewanee Tilt.

UNIVERSITY, Ala., Oct. 8.—(Special)—Alabama has a triple Crimson Tide. Coach Wallace Wade has surprised everyone with his adoption this season of the well-known Knute Rockne method of starting his second team. It remains to be seen whether this system will be used against Tennessee here October 18 in the first game of the Alabama conference program that contains six feature attractions.

This second varsity has acquitted itself nobly in the two first games, showing a brilliant defense against Howard and demonstrating both ability to score and to defend in the Mississippi game. A practically complete third team was used against Mississippi in the last few minutes.

Coach Wade's declaration that Alabama has the strongest substitute team that he ever coached at the Capstone continues to look good, but the test is to come. Maybe it won't be Saturday with Sewanee in Birmingham, but surely with Tennessee here the following week and Vandy in Birmingham the Saturday after that.

If Alabama's triple Tide has the stuff, these two games should prove it, not to speak of the Kentucky, L. S. U., Florida and Georgia battles which follow.

Sewanee is expected to extend Alabama this week, although odds heavily favor the Tide. Sewanee should be better than Mississippi, a victim of numerous injuries and substitutions during last Saturday's game here. Lieutenant "Tiny" Hewitt, assistant Alabama coach, scouted Sewanee against Kentucky last week and brought back some interesting information on both teams.

The first of this week Alabama took things easy and indulged only in forward passing drill and signal practice. Actual scrimmaging began today. The Tide is nearing good early-season shape and so far not a single player has been seriously hurt. The injuries of the first few weeks have healed, and if Lady Luck will just smile on the Tide for seven more weeks, the Crimson supporters can ask for no more.

Alabama's remaining conference foes are going to be some of the hardest running backs in the south when they face the Tide. Campbell, Cain, Suther and Long have plowed through the opposition with a tremendous show of strength, leg-drive and forward motion.

Athletics Win Second Straight World's Baseball Championship

George Earnshaw Pitches Great Game

Big Hurler Gives Up But Five Hits As He Closes Annual Series.

Dykes walked, Mickey Cochrane tripled and Bing Miller doubled. There was the half game in that first Athletic charge before another packed gathering. It meant that the American league was on its way to win 16 of the last 19 world series games played since 1926, and that the National league was to be crushed for the fourth straight time. And it meant a new record for Connie Mack, who could sleep in peace again with five world's championship banners flying from his White Elephant mascot.

The Cardinals banked heavily on Hallahan in this decisive game, but they overlooked the fact that the Athletics have the range of Shibe park and nothing short of a rifle could keep them back.

LAST CHANCE. After the Mackmen had scored two runs in the first, St. Louis' last chance slipped in the third and fourth innings when Al Simmons and Jimmy Dykes lifted two home runs into the stands, raising the count to 5 to 0. Those two big blows killed off all that was left of the Cardinal spirit that flamed so brightly in St. Louis. Here was the Athletics leading 5 to 0. Here was big Earnshaw mowing the Cardinals down, and over in the bullpen was Bob Grove, the big left-hander, warming up in case Earnshaw faltered.

The Red Birds were in a case. They were completely surrounded, and no one knew this better than Gabby Street and his team. They sat staring at the handwriting on the scoreboard, and it told the story in the fourth inning with these few words—"Philadelphia 5, St. Louis 0."

The conquering right arm of Earnshaw and the big war clubs of the Mackmen maulers had broken up the sixth and decisive game within a few innings. There was no more to it. Philadelphia had won the championship, but Philadelphia fans had missed the big drama of the series which fell to St. Louis. The three games fought in the east were all one-sided. The three games played in the west were full of action, full of fight and dash, loaded down with drama.

HIGH EXPLOSIVES. I doubt that two world series ball games were ever played before where the winning team piled up 36 bases without interpolating a single. It was the old high explosive that came to Mack's rescue once more in the decisive game, plus the pitching of Earnshaw.

This big right hander held the Cardinals to one run in his first start. He shut them out for seven innings in St. Louis. He held them runless through the first eight innings of this last game when he became over-anxious to close out the show and dipped just a bit.

But up to this final inning of the final game he held the Cardinals to one run in 24 innings. He held them to two runs in 25 innings. If this isn't pitching then Bobby Jones never saw a golf club and Knute Rockne hasn't a football team at Notre Dame. Earnshaw remains as one of the big stars of the series and so does Robert Moses Grove, the willowy left-hander, who won two games and pitched well enough in defeat.

USELESS SCORES. After the Athletics had taken the lead at 5 to 0, in the fourth, they added two more useless tallies in the fifth and sixth on passes and doubles by Fox and Dykes. And it might be mentioned here that Jimmy Dykes had no intention of being made the goat of the series. He had one or two bad days but when he came to bat in this last game the crowd gave him a hand he will never forget. That's sportsmanship and you must hand it to Philadelphia. They cheered an erring son as if he had won the championship. And Dykes responded by drawing two passes and then hitting a home run and a double.

The star of the Cardinal front line was young Charley Gelbert at short. He finished the series by accepting 26 chances without an error and he did more than his share of hitting. The ball player who ran into the deepest rut was Sunny Jim Bottomley, a fine first baseman who fell on evil days. He was at the clean-up job in the batting order and he made one single in 22 times at bat.

Frank Frisch was far below his best, but he made the great play of the series in the last game when he dashed some 40 feet in the fourth inning, dived for Mickey Cochrane's smoking grounder, knocked down the ball as he was lying on the back of his neck and got his man in first.

FAIL IN PINCH. All told, Frisch and Bottomley together made only five hits in the six games. Frisch got four of these, but neither could hit in a pinch. The massed punch of the Cardinal batting order, Frisch, Bottomley and Hafey, was far below the massed punch of the Athletics with Cochrane, Simmons and Fox. Cochrane and Simmons hit two home runs each. Fox added another, plus a flurry of extra-base hits.

After the great battle the Cardinals gave the Athletics on western soil, the final game was an anti-climax. The Cardinals were plucked and chucked into a pie before they knew the game had started. They saw Hallahan, their star southpaw, batted out quickly. They saw Sylvester Johnson hammer hard. And they rarely saw what Earnshaw was pegging across the plate.

The work of Earnshaw and Grove in this series was remarkable when you figure the amount of labor they did all year. The vital statistics are not at hand here, but they must have been plucked and chucked into a pie before they knew the game had started. They saw Hallahan, their star southpaw, batted out quickly. They saw Sylvester Johnson hammer hard. And they rarely saw what Earnshaw was pegging across the plate.

And when the last man filed out in the final game some 33,000 fans stood up and gave Mack their answer in a closing sonata that must have worked in 85 or 90 games, one for another. Yet they were the two who brought Connie Mack another flag to fly above his wigwag, the fifth world emblem of his 30-year career in the game he has loved all that time. He won his eighth pennant and his fifth world series with only five outstanding ball players, including two pitchers. The others hustled for him but they were not born to the purple toga of baseball fame.

FIVE PUNTERS. Chick Mehnert has five good punters at New York University in Joe LaMark, Bob McNamara, Jim Tanguay, Charlie Marshall and John MacDonal.

Dykes Opens A's Last Attack

Hall Is Versatile For 'Gator Team

GAINESVILLE, Oct. 8.—Switching from one position to another is not a common practice in football, but Joe Hall, of the University of Florida, proved against North Carolina State last week that it matters little whether he plays fullback or end. He learned the complete assignments of the two positions, but few persons knew it. For almost a quarter, Hall worked at fullback against North Carolina State, and carried the ball across the final white stripe early in the last quarter for Florida's fourth touchdown. "Big Joe" immediately shifted out to right end, and played the balance of the game, his superb blocking winning the plaudits of all who watched him closely.

REUNION GAME. Members of the old-time Athletics are being recruited for a game with the Braves in Boston, a part of that city's 300th celebration.

MACKMEN WIN WORLD SERIES

By Frank Getty,

shook up his batting order, reducing Jim Bottomley to sixth place. He yanked his pitchers, Hallahan, Sylvester Johnson and Jim Lindsey, to make way for pinch hitters whenever they were due to bat, finishing up with Herman Bell in the box for the final inning.

It was off Johnson, who replaced Hallahan in the box in the third, that Dykes and Simmons hit their home runs. Simmons, first man to face Johnson, hit a terrific wallop into the upper left field stands. Dykes, coming up in the next session with Max Bishop on first, lined one into the lower stands to pound in two more runs.

This made the count 5 to 0, and with Earnshaw working easily, cutting the plate with a fast curve, the outcome was admitted by everyone except the Cardinals.

Bing Miller got his second double of the game off Johnson in the fourth inning with two out, the only blow the Mackmen wasted all afternoon. The A's added another run in the fifth, which Jimmy Fox, whose homer won the fifth game on Monday, opened with a double off Frisch's glove. This was a terrific line drive which nearly tore the Cardinal captain's glove off, the ball trickling into short center where no one was around to retrieve it before Jimmy could sprint to second.

A sacrifice bunt and a sacrifice fly brought Fox home.

The final run of the game came off Lindsey in the sixth. Bishop walked with one out and a long double to left center, Max pulling up at third, although he might have scored in an emergency.

Mickey Cochrane promptly raised a sacrifice fly to Taylor Douthit, and the A's lead-off man easily scored after the catch.

After that, the Athletics didn't make a hit nor get a man to first. Lindsey was taken out for a pinch hitter in the eighth, and Bell finished the game for the Red Birds.

Meanwhile, here is the record of what George Earnshaw was doing to the Cardinals:

In the first inning, he fanned Douthit and Watkins and forced Adams to ground weakly to Fox.

In the second, Frisch and Hafey fled to Simmons who started at center field with Jimmy Moore in left for the A's, and Jim Bottomley swung for his ninth strikeout of the series.

The third inning found the Cardinals registering their first hit, a double by Pinch Hitter George Fisher, after two were out. But Earnshaw forced Douthit to roll weakly to Boley for the third out.

Earnshaw started the fourth by fanning Adams and Watkins fled to Dykes. Frisch drew a hard line drive to left field foul line, fast fielding by Simmons, who was back in left by this time, with Mule Haas in center, holding the Cardinals' captain to first. Hafey fled out to Haas.

The Cardinals went down in order before Earnshaw's speed and fast breaking curve in the fifth, Wilson fanning out to become Earnshaw's fifth strikeout victim.

The sixth found Ray Blades pinch hitting for Johnson and Earnshaw fanned him for victim number six, his total of strikeouts for the day. Douthit and Andy High, who hit for Adams, were easy outs.

There was a threat by the National league champions in the seventh, when Hafey doubled over third base with two out and Bottomley walked, but Earnshaw forced Wilson, whose pep and drive availed the Cardinals tonight, to pop to Cochrane and end the inning.

The Cardinals, including another pinch hitter, Orsatti, went down in short order in the eighth and then came their final gesture in the ninth. Earnshaw didn't exactly tire, but he lost a bit of his marvellous control, and High, after waiting for a good one, slapped it into right for a single. The ball went to the fence and stopped in the far corner but High made no attempt to stretch it into a double.

Watkins worked a walk, taking first on four pitched balls and there was a faint whoop from a little group of St. Louis fans back of third base. Connie Mack sat up on the edge of the bench, tense and worried looking. Lefty Grove hurried to the bull pen and began to warm up. But this situation was saved by none other than Jimmy Fox, who thus contributed another bit to the winning of the championship.

CARDS BEATEN BY GREAT TEAM, FRISCH WRITES

Earnshaw Crossed Up His Foes in Final, Using More Curves.

By Frankie Frisch, Second Baseman of the Cardinals. PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8.—My hat's off to Connie Mack and the Athletics. They beat us and we congratulate them.

George Earnshaw has proved to me he is one of the great pitchers of the game. A fellow who can pitch three beautiful games in a week, as he did, must be a remarkable man, and numbered among the great of all time.

Earnshaw pitched to us a little differently today than he did in his other games. He concentrated mostly on speed last Thursday and again in St. Louis on Monday, but today he mixed his offerings up more. He still had wonderful speed this afternoon, but he threw more curves than he did during his other games. He also used a slow ball now and then today.

Big George had perfect control almost, especially of his curve ball. He certainly knows how to break that to perfection. He throws it in such a way that it is very difficult for the batters to get a good "piece" of it.

We might have been more troublesome some this afternoon with a little luck. We were getting to Earnshaw late in the game and we had him groggy in the ninth, but the luck held out on us. I hit a hard ball, one of the hardest I hit in the series, with a couple of men on in the ninth, but it only resulted in a double play when Fox grabbed the ball and stepped on first base. High had opened the inning with a long single and later on, after two were out, Hafey hit a double, so had that other ball gone through, we still might have been in that game.

It does not wish to appear as handing out alibis. The Athletics beat us soundly today and they are champions of the world. They deserve the honor. Their hitters came through in a big way today. They scored nearly every time they hit safely. In fact, I believe almost all of their hits were for extra bases. They certainly can sock in that Philadelphia ball park.

Besides their hard hitting in the last game, they surrounded Earnshaw with perfect fielding. They, in fact, were a perfect machine all afternoon. We did our best, and, while we're all downhearted over not being able to win, we'll take it as good naturedly as we can. We know we were beaten by a great team.

THE SPORTLIGHT

PITCHING EXHIBITIONS WONDER OF SERIES. PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8.—It has been whispered all along the season's route that the pitchers never had a chance with this modern ball. But the world series has proved the case to be entirely different. There were six home runs in the first five games but for all that the pitchers dominated these two games.

You can dig back into the vital statistics for the correct answer here. In one stretch the Cardinal pitchers held the Athletics to one run in 30 consecutive innings. If that doesn't show pitching mastery against a hard hitting ball club there is no such thing. When a set of pitchers can hold Cochrane, Simmons, and Fox to one run in 30 innings they are proving that the pitcher still has a main place in the game.

At the end of five games there had been eight fine pitching exhibitions. Grimes turned in two high-grade games where long hits wrecked him in one, after he had allowed only five blows. Bob Grove turned in two fine games, while Earnshaw pitched one of the best games of the series and then followed with a seven-inning shutout. Hallahan and Haines both had the Athletics stopped cold. If there was a rabbit ball in evidence in these first games none of the hitters could locate the rabbit. It wasn't there when they swung.

One big feature of the Cardinals' uphill fight after a groggy start was the fact that they kept the series close and interesting despite the inability of Frisch and Bottomley to hit up to anything like their season's average work. Frisch got only three hits in the first five games and Bottomley went to the plate 20 times and came away with only one hit.

If Cardinal pitchers had been able to stop Cochrane, Simmons and Fox in this fashion there would have been far more trouble for the Mackmen. They stopped the slugging trio in the two first St. Louis games and won both easily. It is tough on a ball club when the massed punch in the run-making sector is thrown for a loss game after game. It is here the winning drive is supposed to start and when it is broken up as badly as this there can only be an uphill battle left. A battle against.

The wonder is that Connie Mack was able to engineer his present ball club into another pennant. He had only two dependable pitchers all year. He had to jockey these in the most skillful fashion. He had at least four weak spots in his machine—spots at least well below his last year's strength.

This last pennant must stand as a tribute to one of the greatest of all managers and to one of the finest years he has ever known in his 50 years of baseball.

Stribling Referees Fair Fight Card

With W. L. (Young) Stribling, Georgia's contender for the world's heavyweight boxing championship, as the center of attraction, the Junior Chamber of Commerce boxing and wrestling program at the Southeastern Fair proved a success Wednesday night. Weather conditions were decidedly unfavorable but the show was run off as scheduled with Stribling in the role of referee.

Johnnie Ritchie and Billy Carter fought eight furious rounds. Two preliminary bouts rounded out the card. It was announced at the show that the amateur sports scheduled for Wednesday afternoon will be run off Friday afternoon as a feature to the Georgia Press Day program. Included in the Friday events will be a golf driving contest, a tennis exhibition, a polo game, trapshooting exhibition, a horse-shoe pitching contest and several track events by members of the Georgia Tech track team.

Miss Maddox, Mrs. Doak and Mrs. Kilpatrick Advance at Albany

ATLANTANS WIN QUARTER-FINAL LINKS BATTLES

Co-Medalist Sweep Ahead Easily—Other Matches Are Close.

ALBANY, Ga., Oct. 8.—Miss Margaret Maddox and Mrs. W. D. Doak, Atlanta, co-medalists in the first Georgia state women's golf tournament being played over the Radium Springs course here, swept easily into the semi-final round by shooting superb golf; the other two quarter-final matches furnished the entertainment for the gallery, both being close battles. Mrs. H. G. Kilpatrick, also of Atlanta, and Mrs. Percy Brice, of Albany, finally winning through.

Miss Maddox, trouncing Mrs. G. C. Watson, of Moultrie, by a margin of 6 and 4, had an out card of 39, five under women's par, to top the day's medal play. Mrs. Doak coasted easily through her match with Mrs. S. Lippitt, of Albany, to win by the same edge.

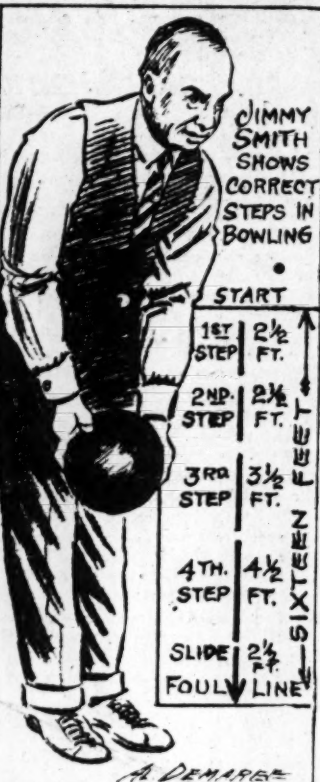

The match in which Mrs. Brice eliminated Mrs. Roy Burns, of Atlanta, furnished the major thrill of the day, going 19 holes before Mrs. Brice was able to establish supremacy after a tight battle.

Mrs. Kilpatrick was forced to rally at the final hole to win from Mrs. V. G. Hilsman, of Albany, one up.

Mrs. Doak, who won the women's invitation tournament here last year, and Miss Maddox faced Mrs. Kilpatrick, while Mrs. Doak pits her skill against the steadiness of Mrs. Brice.

Today's matches enabled Atlanta to place three entries in the semi-finals. Albany being the only other represented city.

Demaree Gives More Pointers For the Bowler

BY AL DEMAREE.

Former Pitcher New York Giants.

The more experienced bowler can stand approximately 16 feet back of the foul line before delivering the ball and use four steps (never more).

The first step should be taken with the right foot extended (if you are right-handed) and then alternate, taking the last step with the left foot extended forward.

In covering this 16 feet in four steps, the first two steps are about two and one-half feet each in distance, the third step about three and one-half feet. The last and final step is about four and one-half feet, making a total of 13 feet. This combined with a slide of about two and one-half feet, will bring the bowler to a distance of about five or six inches from the foul line.

Of course, an experienced bowler should come within two inches of the line.

Al Demaree has prepared an illustrated bowling leaflet on "Improving Your Delivery," which he will gladly send to any reader requesting it. Address Al Demaree, in care The Constitution, and be sure to enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

PRIMO CARNERA SHOWN TO LACK KILLING PUNCH

Jim Maloney Causes Critics To Discount Big Fellow's Victories.

By Bill King,

Associated Press Sports Writer.

BOSTON, Oct. 8.—(AP)—The flistic capabilities of Primo Carnera, heretofore either under or over estimated, were accurately gauged last night by Jimmy Maloney, Boston's favorite but unreliable heavyweight. Giving away 65 pounds to the Italian behemoth, the Boston "fat boy" clearly outpointed him in a furious 10-round slugfest at the Boston Garden.

Maloney proved that Carnera does not possess a killing punch. He digested exactly 195 of the giant's blows and the only time he lost his footing was when he fell against the ropes after missing a wild "roundhouse" right to the Italian's jaw late in the bout. The Boston brawler's performance, at least to the 12,000 who witnessed the exciting setto, also indicated that it would be sound judgment to disregard the 23 consecutive victories, 22 via the knockout route, that the "ambulating Alp" has piled up against carefully selected opponents since he started his American ring invasion early this year.

The Boston brawler also proved that Carnera was easy to hit. Maloney scored 192 times to the head or body of his huge opponent and 90 per cent of them landed cleanly. Most of Carnera's punches were short right or left shots to the head and body, struck after his brute force had pushed his 195-pound rival against the ropes or into a corner.

Maloney was on the short end of the 4-1 betting odds but he fought the greatest battle of his long ring career and his victory was honestly earned. Carnera's 65 pounds advantage and his eight inches in height enabled him to turn and twist Maloney as he wished to take the first two rounds.

Maloney improved in the following round and had the battle won before he wilted in the ninth. The Italian's amazing strength gave him the last two sessions but these points were not enough to sway the officials in his favor.

Carnera fought like a novice during most of the bout and the only time he troubled Maloney was when he had him against the ropes. As a boxer, Primo, judging from his performance last night, is at least two years away from the time when he will prove troublesome to the occupants of the top rungs of the heavyweight ladder.

A NEW CONTRACT.

Carroll Enright, will coach the University of California crews for the next four seasons, having signed a new three-year contract which doesn't start until after next spring.

14,486,000-Bale Cotton Crop Is United States Forecast

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Cotton production this year is forecast today by the department of agriculture on October 1 conditions as 14,486,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight, compared with 14,340,000 bales forecast a month ago and a crop of 14,825,000 bales produced last year.

The condition of the crop on October 1 was 53.5 per cent of a normal, indicating a yield of 154.7 pounds per acre, compared with 153.2 per cent and 153.2 pounds on September 1, 55.0 per cent and 155.0 pounds on October 1 last year and 58.1 per cent and 155.1 pounds, the 10-year average.

The condition on October 1 and indicated production by states, follow:

STATE.	Condition.	Indicated Production.
Alabama	53	3,000,000
Arkansas	53	1,000,000
California	53	1,000,000
Florida	53	1,000,000
Georgia	53	1,000,000
Illinois	53	1,000,000
Indiana	53	1,000,000
Iowa	53	1,000,000
Kansas	53	1,000,000
Mississippi	53	1,000,000
Minnesota	53	1,000,000
Montana	53	1,000,000
Nebraska	53	1,000,000
Nevada	53	1,000,000
New Mexico	53	1,000,000
North Carolina	53	1,000,000
Ohio	53	1,000,000
Oklahoma	53	1,000,000
Oregon	53	1,000,000
South Carolina	53	1,000,000
Texas	53	1,000,000
Utah	53	1,000,000
Virginia	53	1,000,000
Washington	53	1,000,000
West Virginia	53	1,000,000
Wisconsin	53	1,000,000
Wyoming	53	1,000,000

The crop reporting board commenting on the report said:

"The United States cotton crop is now estimated at 14,486,000 bales. This is 144,000 bales, or 1 per cent above the forecast of a month ago, and approximately 342,000 bales below production last year. The indicated yield for the United States is 154.7 pounds per acre, which is 0.4 pounds below the average yield for the 10-year period—1919-1928.

"Since September 1 the crop prospects have declined 46,000 bales in Texas, 25,000 in Mississippi and 17,000 in Tennessee. These losses are more than compensated by increases in other states, where the crop is turning out better than was indicated by reports a month ago. Since September 1 the prospective crop in Georgia has increased by 80,000 bales. North Carolina shows an increase of 51,000 bales, Alabama 42,000, Arkansas 20,000 and Louisiana 10,000 over the forecast a month ago.

"Picking and ginning are unusually advanced in Texas and Oklahoma. In Alabama and Mississippi, however, the per cent of the crop ginned to October 1 is less than usual. The per cent of the crop ginned in other sections is about average for this date."

HIGHLIGHTS OF WALL STREET

By CHARLES W. STORM, Editor, the News Service of Wall Street.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—(N.S.)—The steady decline in the prices of good as well as poor stocks during the last three weeks has placed the street in a highly emotional condition. Not only are the professional bears based on the floor of the stock exchange and outside of that institution but the members themselves became greatly excited today when after selling at new low prices the market began to rally in the last half hour of business.

The floor element became so excited that the cheers resounded throughout the trading floor of the exchange as United States Steel began to lead a forward movement in the pivotal stocks. The cheering, however, as stocks following a rally of from one to three points from the lowest figures, began to recede toward the close.

WAITING FOR THE SACRIFICE.

In the last hour of trading when prices were at the bottom, and common was selling under 151, rumors began gaining currency throughout the street and on the floor of the stock exchange that the bears were going to break steel common down through 150.

These stories were so numerous that they immediately found reflection in a wild rush of floor members to the steel post. In a short time the crowd around the steel post was unusually large, all waiting to see steel sacrificed and put down to another new low level, a figure below 150, the price level of the November 1929 crash. The bears did succeed in getting the price down to 150.1-2, but at that level supporting orders came in, causing a quick rally.

Following the close of the market it became whispered about that there were some really large supporting orders in the market, a number of the most important of which were in the pivotal stocks. For instance, it was declared on good authority that there was an order for 50,000 shares of steel common in the market at 150.1 and another buying order for 50,000 in Standard Oil of New Jersey at 57.

"The knowledge that these buying orders were in the market had a cheering influence and sent the knowing brokers home in a better frame of mind than they have been for weeks.

OTHER LARGE ORDERS.

Another encouraging development was the quiet solicitation by a large investment house of brokers, asking for offerings of blocks of 20,000 and 25,000 shares of certain stocks at current market prices, the transactions to be put over-the-counter instead of over the floor of the stock exchange.

At least three stock exchange houses were asked if they had such offerings of stocks and this started the street guessing as to whether these inquiries meant that a big bull pool had been formed in the market or whether the inquiries reflected the activities of a big professional bear to cover himself without running the prices of the stocks desired up on himself. The execution of such orders would undoubtedly cause sharp advances in the stocks wanted, owing to the large short interest in the market.

COOLIDGE IN WALL STREET.

Simultaneously with the news in the market under leadership of United States Steel it became whispered about the street that former President Calvin Coolidge had had lunch at the First National bank and that he remembered that while the chief executive of this country, Calvin Coolidge was the owner of 50 shares of United States Steel Corporation common stock, but that a recent perusal of the stockholders' list failed to locate his name. The mad wags of the street found time during their apprehension to ask whether Cal was at the bank wondering if Steel had declined far enough to repurchase his stock.

Steel's heaviness was due to lower operations reported for the steel industry for last week and a sharp falling off in pig iron production for September.

Important bankers say there is no mistake about business being better but added that there is an excess of stock offered over the demand.

Coffee.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—A continuance of yesterday's upward movement in coffee futures was reflected by a further advance today with the near months again relatively firm in the face of a delay in shipments from Brazil. No 7 contracts opened 14 to 15 higher and closed 25 to 30 higher; No 8 contracts, 10 to 15 higher; No 9 contracts, 10 to 15 higher.

515,100 Shares Turn In Persistent Selling

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Curb market shares were still under pressure in today's market, and closed lower for the fourth successive session.

Selling was not particularly heavy, the day's sales aggregating 515,100 shares, but it was persistent, and half-hearted efforts to rally the list were quickly abandoned. Most net declines were moderate, although several ranged from 1 to 3 points.

Electric Bond and Share held above its recent minimum, and closed at 20.0-1, a net loss of only 1-5. This issue was traded in large volume, and was the most active in the market, still adversely influenced by the Brazilian situation, touched new low ground at 26, but closed at 27.1-2, off only 3-4. Consolidated Gas of Baltimore lost 3, and Eastern Utility Associates dropped nearly 4 to a new low at 35-5. Niagara Hudson, however, held steady, and American Gas and Electric gained a point.

Ford of Canada dropped nearly 4 points to a new low at 18-1-8, then rallied a point. General Aviation, formerly Fokker, touched 10, off 1-1-2, and new low range. Dow Chemical dropped 2 points, touching 60 for the first time this year. Oils were heavy. Cities Service closed at 20, off only 1-4, but Gulf dropped 3 points. Goldman Sachs Trading was a soft spot in the investment trusts, declining a point to 12-1-2, again a new low.

WAITING FOR THE SACRIFICE.

In the last hour of trading when prices were at the bottom, and common was selling under 151, rumors began gaining currency throughout the street and on the floor of the stock exchange that the bears were going to break steel common down through 150.

These stories were so numerous that they immediately found reflection in a wild rush of floor members to the steel post. In a short time the crowd around the steel post was unusually large, all waiting to see steel sacrificed and put down to another new low level, a figure below 150, the price level of the November 1929 crash. The bears did succeed in getting the price down to 150.1-2, but at that level supporting orders came in, causing a quick rally.

Following the close of the market it became whispered about that there were some really large supporting orders in the market, a number of the most important of which were in the pivotal stocks. For instance, it was declared on good authority that there was an order for 50,000 shares of steel common in the market at 150.1 and another buying order for 50,000 in Standard Oil of New Jersey at 57.

"The knowledge that these buying orders were in the market had a cheering influence and sent the knowing brokers home in a better frame of mind than they have been for weeks.

OTHER LARGE ORDERS.

Another encouraging development was the quiet solicitation by a large investment house of brokers, asking for offerings of blocks of 20,000 and 25,000 shares of certain stocks at current market prices, the transactions to be put over-the-counter instead of over the floor of the stock exchange.

At least three stock exchange houses were asked if they had such offerings of stocks and this started the street guessing as to whether these inquiries meant that a big bull pool had been formed in the market or whether the inquiries reflected the activities of a big professional bear to cover himself without running the prices of the stocks desired up on himself. The execution of such orders would undoubtedly cause sharp advances in the stocks wanted, owing to the large short interest in the market.

COOLIDGE IN WALL STREET.

Simultaneously with the news in the market under leadership of United States Steel it became whispered about the street that former President Calvin Coolidge had had lunch at the First National bank and that he remembered that while the chief executive of this country, Calvin Coolidge was the owner of 50 shares of United States Steel Corporation common stock, but that a recent perusal of the stockholders' list failed to locate his name. The mad wags of the street found time during their apprehension to ask whether Cal was at the bank wondering if Steel had declined far enough to repurchase his stock.

Steel's heaviness was due to lower operations reported for the steel industry for last week and a sharp falling off in pig iron production for September.

TARZAN AND THE LOST EMPIRE No. 76

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

From the far end of the garden, above the din of the breaking battle, rose a savage cry, a new note that gave pause to the contestants on both sides. Tarzan's head snapped to attention. His nostrils sniffed the air. Recognition, hope, surprise, incredulity surged through his consciousness.

In increasing volume, the savage roar rolled into the garden of Caesar. The legionnaires turned to face the vanguard of an army led by a horde of ebony warriors, glistening giants from whose heads floated white feather war-bonnets, and from whose throats issued war cries. Tarzan's Waziri had come.

At their head Tarzan saw Muirio and with him was Lukedi, but what they did not see and what none of them in the garden of Caesar until later was the horde of warriors from the outer villages of Caesar's Sanguinarius. These men, following the Waziri, were already overrunning the palace seeking vengeance.

As the last of the legionnaires in the garden threw down their arms and begged Tarzan's protection, Muirio ran to the ape-man and, kneeling at his feet, kissed his hand, and at the same instant a little monkey dropped from a tree onto Tarzan's shoulder. "It was little Nkima who led us to find you," said Muirio.
